Roosevelt Worker Sends Letter to Taft Campaign Forces

PEOPLE'S RIGHT TO DECIDE

Says Country Should Have Free and Voluntary Expression From Voters

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The following letter challenging the Taft campaign forces to a test by ways of primaries was sent to William B. McKinley, chairman of the Taft campaign committee, late today by Senator Dixon, Roosevelt [illegible] man.

My Dear Mr. McKinley:

For the purpose [illegible] determining definitely whether the Republican voters of the country desire Colonel Theodore Roosevelt or President Taft as their candidate [illegible] approaching presidential campaign [illegible] [illegible] to a test [illegible] primaries in every state in the Union.

Senator Dixon states [illegible] purpose [illegible] both the Republican campaign committees [illegible] [illegible] ested primarily in the success of the party and that the first requisite to such success is to [illegible] candidate with the greatest popular strength.

We ought [illegible] free and voluntary expression [illegible] direct from the voters [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

National Committee Not Justified

Senator Dixon states that [illegible] national committee was not justified in leaving the primary question to the action of the states.

"In every state and district in the Union proper arrangements can be made and effectively carried out [illegible] for securing a free and voluntary expression of the will of the Republican voters. If it cannot be done by a state wide primary, which would [illegible] preferable, it can be arranged for districts under the supervision of proper committees."

The letter calls attention to the various states where arrangements have been made or are being made for primaries and adds:

"With [illegible] cooperation similar arrangements no doubt can be effected in all other states where legislatures are not now considering the enactment of presidential preference primary laws. I am informed that in several states where the presidential preference primary question is awaiting legislative action the influence of men [illegible] are working with you is cast determinedly in opposition. Your cooperation with [illegible] states [illegible] doubt would result in the enactment of [illegible] laws and the considerable spread [illegible] the presidential preference primary under strict legal sanction by the state.

Let me call your attention to the fact [illegible] Colonel Roosevelt has de-

APPORTIONS FUND FOR GOOD ROADS

State Highway Commission Safeguards Counties in Case Favorable Ruling

DENVER, March 5.—More than $500,000 was apportioned to the counties by the state highway commission today out of the funds that will be at its disposal this year. In the event that the supreme court sustains the validity of house bill No. 200. Under the law this apportionment must be made on or before the first Tuesday in March.

The total apportionment by the commission was $550,000, $530,000 being set aside for the counties and $20,000 being reserved for road making equipment and engineering expense. In the event the court sustains the bill the apportionment really means an expenditure of $1,500,000 upon the state roads this year, because of the fact that [illegible] counties expend from $3 to $5 of their own funds to every $1 of state money.

A partial list of the apportionments by counties follows:

Conejos, $10,300; Rio Grande, $17,500; Mineral, $10,083; Arapahoe, $10,000; La Plata, $15,000; San Juan, $25,000; Ouray, $12,300; Montezuma, $7,000; Dolores, $7,000; San Miguel, $6,010; Prowers, $8,300; Bent, $3,003; Otero, $16,300; Crowley, $4,000; Las Animas, $10,070; Pueblo, $22,535; Fremont, $20,383; El Paso, $14,000; Teller, $8,005; Park, $8,000; Kit Carson, $4,044; Lincoln, $2,300; Elbert, $3,000; Douglas, $12,000; Lake, $10,000; [illegible] $6,015; Garfield, $12,500; Chaffee, $8,000; Huerfano, $6,000; Mesa, $15,000; Montrose, $12,000; Delta, $8,000; Pitkin, $20,000.

FRANCE HOPES KNOX WILL INFLUENCE ARBITRATION

PARIS, March 5.—Whatever may be the results of United States Secretary of State Knox's trip to Central America and northern South America the Paris Temps [illegible] [illegible] says the relations between the United States and Europe will be favorable so long as Europe's rights and interests are safeguarded.

But it is hoped the newspaper adds [illegible] Mr. Knox will influence the governments of Venezuela and Cuba to arbitrate the longstanding French claims against these countries.

France's claim against Cuba is for damages resulting from the destruction of property of French subjects in the course of the Cuban war of independence.

The claims of France against Venezuela arose from the expulsion of several French citizens from Carupano in February, 1906.

MARTIN ACCUSES TEXAN OF DOUBLE DEALINGS

Colorado Congressman Attacks Position Taken by Representative Garner on Free Sugar Bill

WASHINGTON, March [illegible]—A spirited clash among Democratic members of the house over the free sugar bill [illegible] today marked consideration of the agriculture appropriation bill. Representative Garner of Texas, Democrat, sought to have adopted an amendment to the agriculture measure providing $5,000 for investigations and experiments with sugar production plants in the Rio Grande [illegible] [illegible] Texas.

Representative Martin of Colorado, Democrat, offered a substitute amendment to grant that amount to the state of Colorado. He arraigned Representative Garner for endeavoring to curry political favor with his constituents at the expense of the government.

"My friend from Texas," Representative Martin said, "realizing that his support of the free sugar bill, a bunk political measure, is indefensible, hopes to restore himself to the favor of his constituents by going home to them with $5,000 in government money in his vest pocket with which to pursue an inquiry into the industry his bill would destroy."

Mr. Garner declared the criticism unfair and wholly unjustifiable, charging that in refusing to vote for the sugar revision bill, Mr. Martin had betrayed his party.

Both amendments and two similar ones offered by Representatives Mondell of Wyoming and Lever of South Carolina, where voted down. The incident was smoothed over by an apology by Mr. Martin.

MIDSHIPMEN TO GET COMMISSIONS AT ONCE

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Congress passed [illegible] bill today authorizing a [illegible] of ensign to be given to [illegible] upon graduation from the naval academy. The senate agreed to [illegible] amendment to the senate [illegible] for that purpose.

SPRINGS MAN TELLS OF PUEBLO HOLDUP

Frank N. Dorn [illegible] traveling salesman was one of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Hotel Vail at [illegible] Monday night. He returned [illegible] [illegible] ing and told of his experiences.

"About [illegible] o'clock I stepped [illegible] the buffet with Charles O'Brien [illegible] ager of the hotel," said Mr. Dorn.

"We had been in there about [illegible] minutes when a man stepped in from a side door. He had a gun in his hands and pointed it at me, telling us to throw up our hands. The bartender was the only other man in the house.

"I thought it was a joke at first and I guess the other men did too. Anyhow we didn't comply until the man made the second request. Then we knew he meant business. Not only did I put up my hands, but I tried to get them as high in the air as possible to show the stranger that I was a good fellow and meant well. The gun was pointed at me all the time [illegible] [illegible] was in a position to sweep the floor at a single movement.

"Then he lined us three against the wall and made us turn our backs while he went through the till. After five minutes' search in which he got about $150 he turned his attention to us again. He made us advance one by one and lay our money on the counter. I had $2 in loose change in my pocket and gave him that. I had about $30 in bills in my pocketbook, which I was going to try to keep.

Pinkerton Enters

"The man had just about finished with us when J. W. Erb, a Pinkerton detective, entered the room. He advanced to within five feet of the holdup man and was between us and the revolver before he knew what was going on.

"The burglar told him to [illegible] [illegible] hands [illegible] never think [illegible] [illegible] Erb is the gamest little man I ever saw. One hand went up in the air and the other went for his revolver, which was on the inside of his vest. The holdup man got in one shot. We as well as Mr. Erb were in the line of fire but the man missed us by a few inches. The bullet whizzed by my head. Erb replied. The first shot missed but the second one got the holdup man in the left ear. Another bullet caught him in the right arm and the revolver dropped to the floor. The next minute the burglar was gone."

The bandit was arrested a few minutes later by a Pueblo patrolman. He proved to be H. J. Newell, a hack driver. The Pinkerton detective is known here having been called to assist the authorities on the Burnham murder case. Newell says family troubles drove him to do the deed. The bullet had not been removed from his right arm last night.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TEXAS REPUBLICANS INDORSES ROOSEVELT

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 5.—By a vote of 27 to 1 the candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt was indorsed today by the Texas state Republican executive committee. Supporters of Taft thereupon decided to carry their fight before the voters by some method yet to be worked out.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 5.—Returns from precinct conventions received here show that 237 delegates to the Oklahoma Republican state convention are instructed for Roosevelt and 113 instructed for Taft. Last night's reports were that 127 delegates had been instructed for Taft. This was found to be an error in telegraphic communication.

It appears that George A. Priestly is certain of election as national committeeman.

COAL OPERATORS REJECT DEMANDS

NEW YORK, March 5.—Demands of the anthracite coal miners for increased pay, recognition of the union, a shorter working day and other changes, were unanimously rejected this afternoon by 47 operators.

The operators adjourned after appointing a committee to acquaint the United Mine Workers of America with their decision. This committee, which is clothed with power to act, will formulate a reply for presentation to the miners on March 13.

The decisive action of the operators was unexpected. After the meeting, however, one of the operators said the action would not prevent the committee from making a counter proposition to the miners.

The belief is growing among the operators that there will be no general strike of the 180,000 men in the Pennsylvania fields, but the operators would rather face a general strike than advance wages 20 per cent and in consequence be compelled to increase the price of coal.

clared repeatedly that he is not an active candidate for the nomination but will accept if it comes to him as the demand of the voters of the party. His letter to Mr. Moore of Pittsburg, sent out by your headquarters last night and published in the newspapers this morning, is an additional proof of this attitude and of the fact that in now saying he will accept the nomination under the conditions specified, he is merely responding to a popular demand.

"The voters of the country have the unquestionable right to express their desire and I sincerely trust you will accept this challenge and prepare to cooperate with me in the arrangement of such primaries.

Director McKinley Replies.

Director McKinley's letter in reply was brief. He wrote:

I am just in receipt of your letter of the fifth instant delivered by special messenger. Since you are pleased to apply to your communication so grave a term as "challenge," it becomes somewhat important to have our respective relations to candidates made clear at the start.

I would, therefore, say that I have been asked by President Taft to act as director of a bureau with headquarters in Washington, organized for the purpose of securing his renomination for a second term. Before answering your challenge, I desire to know whether you are acting as chairman of the Roosevelt executive committee, by direction or authority of Mr. Roosevelt, and also whether your so-called "challenge" is backed by authority of Mr. Roosevelt, who is a candidate for a third term as president, [illegible] you and your organization are acting to secure.

FEAR CUBA MIGHT BECOME SUBJECT FOR ARBITRATION IF TREATIES ARE RATIFIED

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Four hours' debate in the senate today seemed to indicate that the arbitration treaties with England and France probably would be ratified late tomorrow. The ratification will be the consummation of the first great move toward universal peace.

The target for the opponents of the treaties is the much discussed clause three, of article three. Some senators hold that this section delegates treaty making powers of the senate to a joint high commission. Around this clause ranges the running fire of amendments, ratification resolutions and the real fight upon the treaties themselves.

Senator Lodge said tonight that he expected a vote tomorrow and that while the vote on the committee amendment proposing to strike out clause three from the treaties probably would be close, he believed that the treaties, unamended, would be ratified with his resolution.

The speakers today were Senators Brown, of Nebraska and Williams of Mississippi, who favored the treaties, and Senator Heyburn of Idaho, who opposed them. Senator Smith of Michigan, in a colloquy with Senator Heyburn, asked whether the so-called Platt amendment, by which the United States undertakes a certain sovereignty over Cuba, might not also become a subject of international inquiry if Article 3 were to be left in the treaty as submitted.

"We have spent millions and millions of dollars," Senator Smith said, "that the island might be free, and, having enjoined upon them certain condition for the maintenance of their freedom, we have elected to say that it shall not be within the power of that sovereign state to contract any obligations that would impair her sovereignty. If that question could not be inquired into by a tribunal, such as we seek to superimpose upon us by Article 3, I do not know of a controversy that can be taken before that tribunal. We are embarking upon a general scheme which begins nowhere and ends nowhere, and if we pass this treaty in the form in which it comes to us, there is not a senator in this body who can tell what questions we have resolved to arbitrate with Great Britain and France."

Senator Williams said he hoped to see an international court of arbitration to which all disputes among nations could be submitted. He said that none of the prerogatives of the senate would be surrendered by referring disputes to the proposed joint high commission.

NOW THAT EGGS ARE CHEAPER, HERE ARE SOME GOOD THINGS TO EAT

In the March Woman's Home Companion, Fannie Merritt Farmer says that many requests have come to her for dishes in which eggs play an all-important part, and she has been waiting for spring, when eggs are low in price, to publish several recipes of good dishes containing eggs. Following are two of her recipes.

"Vienna Cake—Beat the yolks of four eggs until thick and lemon-colored, and add gradually, while beating constantly, one cupful of fine granulated sugar. Then add three tablespoonfuls of cold water. Put one and one-half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a cup, and fill the cup with pastry flour (sifted once). Mix with one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Combine mixtures, and add one teaspoonful of lemon extract and the whites of six eggs, beaten until stiff. Turn into a buttered and floured angel cake pan, and bake in a moderate oven from 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from pan, and cut crosswise so as to make four layers of equal thickness. Put between the top and bottom layers chocolate mocha filling. In the center and over top and sides of cake put vanilla mocha filling, and sprinkle entire surface with nut brittle.

"Mocha Filling—Scald two cupfuls of milk in double boiler. Mix one-third cupful, each, of sugar and flour, and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Add milk gradually to mixture, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, and afterwards occasionally; then cool. Wash one cupful of butter, and work until creamy, then add cooled mixture and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of vanilla. To one-third of the mixture add one ounce of melted sweet chocolate, for the chocolate mocha filling."

Russia is considering the passage of a compulsory school attendance law, according to a correspondent of the United States bureau of education. The critics of the proposed law are point out that the law might be unenforceable, owing to the inadequacy of the schoolhouses and the apathy of the peasantry. If the measure passes, Russian will be taught in all schools, to the end that it may become the language of the people even in the provinces of the empire which are inhabited by non-Russians.

THOUSANDS ATTENDING STOCKMEN'S CONVENTION

EL PASO, March 5.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Panhandle Stockmen's association convened in this city this morning with the largest attendance in the history of its organization, it being estimated that 5000 visitors are in the city. The greater portion of the membership is present, numbering about 1500, with many visitors from Chicago, Kansas City and other market centers, together with large delegations from New Mexico, Arizona and Mexico. The day's business was of the usual routine nature and included the changing of the name of the organization to the Panhandle and Southwestern Stockmen's association.

Officers of the Cattle Raisers association of Texas are present with the proposition of a merger with that organization, but the indications are not favorable for the consolidation.

There is a strong fight being waged for the honor of entertaining the next annual meeting of the association between Amarillo, Tex., and Oklahoma City, Okla., with the odds apparently in favor of the Texas city.

LETTER SHOWS

the man in sight to do the job, then I should regard myself as shirking a plain duty if I refused to do it.

Concerned With Welfare of People.

What I am interested in, remember, is not in the least holding the office, but doing a job that is actually worth doing. This is the position that to the best of my belief I have always taken, and always shall take. If the people at large did feel that I was the instrument to be used at this time, I should accept, even although I knew that I should be broken and cast aside in the using.

In short, I am not concerned with the welfare of any one man in this matter, not with Mr. Taft's welfare, nor Mr. La Follette's, and least of all with my own. I am concerned only with the welfare of the people of the United States.

If at this time I announce that I would accept if nominated, it would be blazoned abroad by all my enemies, and ultimately believed by a large portion, even of my good friends and well wishers, that I had in my own interest announced my candidacy, that I was an active candidate, that I was striving by every means to secure the nomination for president. At this time—whatever may be the case in the future—I do not see that any other outcome could be expected. It is simply a case where the language would not be accepted at its exact face value, and would inevitably be given a false construction. And, this being so, it seems to be wise not to use language.

Gives an Illustration.

Let me illustrate what I mean by referring you to the language in which, after the election of 1904, I announced that I would not be a candidate for renomination. At the time good friends of mine suggested that I should use some such formula, stating that I would not be a candidate in 1908, because of the custom that had grown up not to elect a man as president for a third consecutive term; but, on thinking it over, I became convinced that if I used such language it would inevitably be taken as an announcement that I would be a candidate for another term in 1912—and this in spite of the fact, that of course, the language, if taken literally, would only have referred to 1908, and have no more bearing on 1912 than on 1916 or 1948.

Accordingly I used language which simply stated that I paid heed to the essence and not the form of wise custom of our forefathers in reference to the third term. The essence of course being that the custom applied just as much when my first term was the filling out of an unexpired term of my predecessor as if it had been an elective term, and that on the other hand, it had no application whatever to the candidacy of a man who was not at the time in office, whether he had or had not been president before. Yet, even as it was, men at once began to ask me whether my remark was to be held to apply to 1912 or to 1916, to which I of course responded that it would be preposterous to answer any such question one way or the other.

Such People Not Honest.

By the way, I may recall to you that the very papers which are howling now to have me make some public statement, are the ones which, four and five years ago, when I had made a definite public statement, were continually howling I should make some additional statement. These people, such as the editors of the newspapers above referred to, are not honest; they do not wish the truth, and to pay any heed to their demands would be worse than folly.

Nothing I could say, no statement or explanation by me, would avail to prevent deliberate misrepresentation by bad men, designed to puzzle and mislead good men, who, in the nature of the case, could not be expected to have first-hand information. They now misrepresent my position designedly and purposely. They would merely misrepresent it even more effectively if I should at this time make the statement you desire.

If my position were only a pose, I should certainly act differently from the way I am acting, for I am well aware that the way I am acting is not the way in which to act if I desire to be made president. But my attitude is not a pose. I am acting as I do because, according to my light I am endeavoring, in a not too easy position, to do what I believe the interests of the people demand. From this standpoint, I am convinced that although it is entirely proper for other men to seek the presidency, it is neither wise nor proper for me to do so, the conditions being what they actually are.

To Be Judged by His Acts.

I have been president; I was president for nearly eight years; I am well known to the American people; I am to be judged not by words, but by my acts, and whether the people like or dislike me, they have these acts all before them for their decision.

My usefulness in the presidency, as condition now are, would depend not merely upon the people's wishing me to be president, but upon their having good reason to believe that I was president because of their wishes; because of their desire that I should do a given job, which they felt I could do better than any one else, and not because of any political ambition on my part.

Under these circumstances, I must not put myself in a position which would look as if I were seeking the office, as if I were trying to get it for my own sake. I know well that this means, in all probability, some one else will be nominated and elected, and where others seek the nomination, their friends, as is natural, actively work for them, and give the skillful direction and leadership [illegible] at which even a strongly aroused public opinion generally fails to find expression. Therefore, I have all along felt that even if there should be a strong popular demand for me, as to which I can pass no judgment yet, unless this demand were steadily overwhelming it could hardly make itself effective.

But it seems to me that it is better that it should not make itself effective rather than that by any action of mine I should make it seem that I desire the presidency for my own sake or am willing to accept it unless it comes to me as the result of a real popular movement giving expression to a demand from at least a substantial portion of the plain people that I should undertake a given task in the interest of the people as a whole. Before I speak there should be some tangible demonstration that such is the case.

With very high regard, faithfully yours.

HEAVY GUARD FOR SECY. KNOX'S TRAIN

MANAGUA, March 5.—The American secretary of state and his party traveled from Corinto today to Managua on a special train which was heavily guarded in consequence of anti-Knox and anti-American propaganda industriously circulated by expatriated Colombians. These represented that the visit of Secretary Knox meant further American domination.

A pilot train carrying 50 soldiers, with a machine gun in position, preceded the special, while a third train followed carrying 100 soldiers with another machine gun.

The 100 miles between Corinto and Managua was traveled in six hours, the train stopping occasionally for a close inspection of the tracks. No untoward incident occurred.

Secretary Knox arrived here from Corinto at 9 o'clock and was accorded a hearty welcome. A platform had been erected near the station from which President Adolfo Diaz greeted the secretary.

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

From Tit-Bits.

A local preacher who was in the habit of taking his wife with him to his preaching appointments said, on arrival at the chapel, "My dear, you go in there; you will be all right. I must go round to the vestry."

In the vestibule the wife was met by a kind-hearted steward, who, after giving her a hearty welcome and a hymn book, conducted her to a comfortable seat.

At the close of the service the same kind-hearted steward gave her a hearty shake of the hand, adding how pleased he would be to see her at the services each Sunday. Then, whispering, he said:

"But, let me tell you, we don't get a duffer like this in the pulpit every Sunday."

SCORES GAYNOR FOR HIS CRITICISM IN BRANDT CASE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5.—Not a day passes without a fresh contribution to the complex literature of the Brandt case from some state official. The latest development comes from Attorney General Carmondy, who takes up the cudgels against Mayor Gaynor for the latter's attack on some of the court procedure in the case.

"Mayor Gaynor's letter," says the attorney general, "is a gratuitous insult to an able and upright judge. The decision of a court is entitled to the respect of every one until it has been passed upon by a higher court. The motives of the court are not open to criticism.

"This case has apparently reached the point where it is necessary to depart from the facts and resort to abuse and the mayor may always be relied upon for a skillful wielding of that weapon. His recent critics have long since ceased to believe any other effect than to disappoint his friends and please his enemies."

Another of Madero's Trusted Lieutenants Joins Revolution

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—Ambrosio Figueroa, Madero's trusted chief of forces in Guerrero and Morelos, and during the previous revolution his great ally in the south, is reported in revolt.

The news caused a sensation among the southern Maderistas, 1,500 of whom have reenlisted under the banner of the new revolution. Figueroa's grievance is alleged to be the president's action in listening to a proposal from Jesus Salgado, the Guerrero rebel who Figueroa had been fighting many weeks, that Figueroa be retired from Guerrero on a promise of the other's surrender. Salgado is said to have boasted that his promise meant nothing.

It was semiofficially admitted today that Orozco has gone over to the enemy. His defection was said to be no great surprise to Madero for the reason that the former revolutionary leader, on his last visit to the capital, demanded and was refused 50,000 pesos to make up 100,000 pesos which he claimed for loss and damage sustained in the previous revolution. When he returned to Chihuahua, he soon tendered his resignation as chief of the Maderista forces.

The French consulate here appeared to have news of the coming of a French warship. The exodus of foreigners continued unabated tonight. The regular northbound train via Laredo, in two sections, carried two extra sleeping cars in a total of four, and several extra day coaches with all available space occupied. One sleeper was filled with women and children from El Oro, a mining camp 150 miles northwest of here.

Foreign Women Gone.

It is declared in well informed quarters that two thirds of the foreign women and children have left or have made all preparations to leave the country and many of the wealthy Mexican families are likewise departing.

Members of the German and British colonies held meetings last night and today, but no definite plan had been arrived at tonight.

President Madero bitterly denounced Orozco today in the course of an address to about 100 cadets at the national palace, giving the first official acknowledgment that his erstwhile chief had deserted the Madero standard.

About 70 of the cadets will leave at once for the campaign against Orozco.

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—Following the cabinet meeting today the first in which Angel Garcia Pena, the new war minister has taken part, it was said tonight that a proposal is being considered to remove the entire garrison of 2,000 regular soldiers from the capital and to replace them with militia. No militia has been formed, although their enlistment has been discussed for two months.

While it is stated by cabinet officers that a plan of campaign to meet the rebel encroachments from the north has been worked out, no details have been made public.

Rebels Control Chihuahua.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., March 5.—Rebels are in control of the entire state of Chihuahua tonight. Col. Pancho Villa and his force are still in the state but so outnumbered as to be ineffective. The column under Generals Salazar and Campa moved to the city this afternoon from Sauz and with Orozco's men are in camp at the edge of the city. All saloons were closed by order of Orozco. An immense crowd welcomed the column from Juarez.

Under Orozco's immediate command are 600 former government troops. The rebel generals tonight declared that the numerous volunteers who are offering themselves will soon swell the rebel army to 5,000 men who will be taken south to secure control of Durango, Torreon and all other towns between here and the city of Mexico.

The misunderstanding by which General Salazar delayed entering Chihuahua apparently has been cleared up. On the surface at least all distrust of Orozco has disappeared.

A report from Parral says that Jose Dela Lusoto with a small detachment of federals has joined Villa.

Flee in Any Kind of Conveyance.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 5.—Trains, automobiles and vehicles of all kinds poured into Douglas today carrying practically the entire American population of El Tigre, Nacozari, and Cananea.

A report was brought here today that Colonel Francisco Chiapas, a field leader for President Diaz, who fought Madero in the last revolution and who had been in jail at Hermosillo, has been deputized by Madero to take the field against the rebels.

The report produced consternation among the rebels and their sympathizers.

Army Officers Confer.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 5.—Brig.-Gen. Ramsey D. Potts, commanding the department of the lakes, with headquarters in Chicago, conferred with Brig.-Gen. Joseph W. Duncan, commander of the department of Texas, at Fort Sam Houston, today, inspected the state encampment grounds at Austin and proceeded to El Paso tonight.

General Potts said his mission to Texas was to look over possible sites suitable for mobilization camps for state militia as a precautionary measure against such conditions as prevailed at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. He denied that the situation in Mexico influenced his visit to Texas at this time.

Foreign Residents in Panic.

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—A telegram from Mazatlan states that the American consul's notification to Americans to concentrate in that city has created a panic among foreign residents of the district.

EL PASO, Tex., March 5.—One hundred and fifty Americans, mostly women and children from the American lumbering town of Madera, were brought into El Paso tonight from Pearson, which was their first stopping place after leaving Madera. They were brought here by the Mexican Northwestern railway. Another train, bringing refugees from Chihuahua is expected over the Mexican Central by midnight. With the exception of a small hospital staff at Pearson, every woman and child in the towns of Madera and Pearson, Mex., is on United States soil.

These assert that for weeks they have been practically isolated and living in a state of terror. With neither wire nor train communication, and mails demoralized, they have been cut off completely from the outside world and almost constantly menaced by marauding bands. Business at Madera, they declare, is nil. Today, it is said by the refugees, the mills of the Madera Lumber company were closed, hundreds of workmen being thrown out of employment.

Glad to Be on U. S. Soil.

Men and women closely associated with the Madera company, which controls practically all business in both Madera and Pearson, say to the contrary that quiet rules in both towns and that they came to the United States in response to the president's proclamation. They, however, admit depredations by Rojas and his men and expressed keen gratification at being on American soil and seeing for the first time in months the olive drab uniform of United States troops.

A. J. Halton of Madera, an officer of the Madera company, said that it was considered advisable to obey President Taft's warning to the extent of sending all women and children to the United States. About 400 American men are left at Madera. These are fully armed and able to meet any situation that may arise.

Enrique E. Bowman, a merchant of Colonial Dublan, a town 50 miles north of Pearson, stated frankly that in his district conditions could not be worse. The rebels, Bowman declared, were wandering here and there, burning property, stealing horses, raiding and looting.

A pitiable aspect of the exodus is revealed in the case of George Snell and his family who just preceding their residence at Madera were refugees from the Austin, Pa., flood. They fled from Madera practically without preparation, leaving behind their home and stock.

Rebels Seize Company's Stores.

Miss Elizabeth Snell, a daughter, cashier at the Madera company's store, declares that the Rojas band demanded $2,000 in cash from her.

"I did not have the money," said Miss Snell, "so they took about $2,000 worth of clothing and food, charged it to the government and gave the company a receipt. About 25 of them rode their horses into the American hotel and fired their guns, filling guests with terror. They burned the Mexican part of the town and took hundreds of horses belonging to Mexican residents. I think conditions there are very bad and I am glad to be in the United States."

In this Miss Snell is borne out by members of her family and many others.

Anarchy Reigns in Chihuahua.

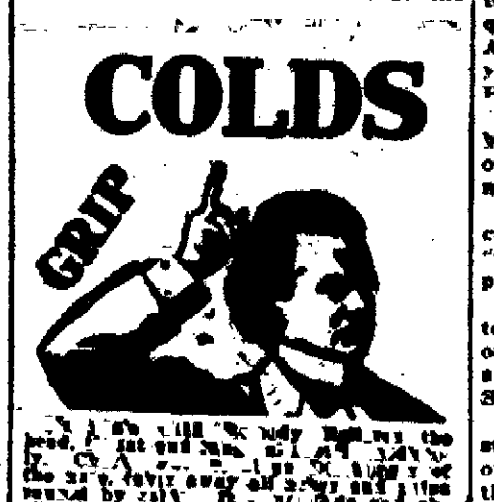

Mrs. D. H. Bollser, a bride of a few months, who formerly lived at Coalinga, Cal., left Madera with a large party of friends. Mrs. Bollser says that for months she has been living in a state of alarm, not at any time knowing what would happen next. She confirms all statements to the effect that Chihuahua is in a state of anarchy.

Two rails were removed from the approach to the International bridge by General Rojas' orders this afternoon to prevent rolling stock from being removed to the American side.

Lieutenant Hall of the Twenty-second infantry reached Columbus, N. M., today. He reported nothing further to Colonel Steever, from which the latter assumes that last night's story that no Americans were killed in the brush between Mexicans and Americans was correct.

It was learned tonight that the train scheduled to leave Chihuahua with refugees today and which would have arrived here at midnight was unable to start.

TAFT HEADQUARTERS FOUR YEARS AGO, SAYS SEN. DIXON

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Senator Dixon of Montana, chairman of the Roosevelt executive committee, replied today to the statement given out by the National Taft headquarters yesterday in which attention was called to the location of the Roosevelt headquarters in a building owned by Frank A. Munsey. "We elected Taft four years ago out of the International Harvester company building in Chicago," [illegible] "our friends there occupied the sixth floor of that building and so far as I know, no rent was paid for the room.

"If political [illegible] are wanted in this campaign," [illegible] continued, "we will give [illegible] than they expect.

"Four years ago when I was trying to elect Taft, Mr. McKinley, now head of the Taft campaign, was down south rounding up [illegible] for Speaker Cannon.

"The Taft headquarters gave out a statement [illegible] that the [illegible] of the [illegible] that George W. Perkins and Medill McCormick [illegible] of the International Harvester [illegible] from Mr. Roosevelt and his campaign."

"In this demand," the statement says, "they are only indicating their ignorance of the fact that Mr. Perkins probably would have lost his job long ago had it not been for his intimate friendship with Mr. Roosevelt running back over many years.

"While still remaining a director of the steel corporation and of the International Harvester company, Mr. Perkins recently has severed himself from many of his business connections and now is devoting much of his time to solving the problems of the times.

"The great first work along this line to which Mr. Perkins is now directing his undivided attention and his pocketbook is the nomination and election of Mr. Roosevelt to a third term as president."

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The national Roosevelt headquarters today gave out a statement which said:

"Further evidence of the manner in which the administration campaign managers are conducting the fight for delegates has come to light in the form of a circular letter which is being sent to the postmasters and other federal employes throughout the northwest. That a similar form of letter is being sent out through the south has already been stated but the terms have not as yet come to light.

"The letters received by the federal employes in the northwest are very delicately worded—such letters as only the pen of the diplomatic Mr. McKinley could well turn out and abound with veiled threats and plastic praise. Boundless enthusiasm is expected and it is declared without hesitation that the sentiment in favor of the nomination of President Taft is rapidly growing. Hints are then thrown out that assistance of all good office holders is needed, Mr. McKinley evidently forgetting the optimism expressed in the preceding paragraph.

"Already several hundred of these letters have been sent out, it is stated, and more, said to contain a more personal tone, are in course of preparation for serving to job holders who have displayed reluctance to rally to the support of the administration. In these latter epistles, it is stated, the hints as to what will be the portion of federal servants who fail to faithfully serve the interests of President Taft are made more plain."

With the statement the Roosevelt headquarters gave out a copy of one of the Taft circular letters addressed in blank. After expressing optimism as to the outlook for Mr. Taft and the opening of the national Taft bureau the letter concludes:

"It will be the aim of this bureau to conduct a dignified and energetic campaign in keeping with the president's high conception of American statesmanship. I would, therefore, thank you to render such assistance as you can consistent with your duties, and would appreciate an early reply giving me such information as in your judgment will facilitate the work of the bureau.

"Very truly yours,
"WM B. M'KINLEY, Director."

M'KINLEY COMMENTS ON ACTIVITY OF EMPLOYES

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Taft's manager, Representative McKinley, made the following statement regarding the alleged activity among federal employes:

"Under the recent ruling of the civil service commission the managers of the campaign of any presidential candidate may inquire of any federal officeholder as to political conditions in his vicinity and may even ask his own political preferences, which I distinctly did not do in my letter of the 24th."

Seth Low Advises Cooperation of Employer and Employe Eulogizes Workers

President Low dwelt at length on the advantages created under the trade agreement plan between employer and employe. Bargaining between capital and labor he pointed out had reached industrial friction and had virtually abolished serious industrial warfare. Mr. Low applauded the philosophy of the American Federation of Labor that though the interests of labor and of capital were not identical they were usually reconcilable.

"The acceptance of this philosophy by labor," he said, "always means an effort on its part to find a basis of honorable agreement between organized labor and its employers. It means a constantly increasing number of trade agreements governing hours, wages and conditions of employment between the international unions of organized labor and the national organizations representing employers."

Mr. Low, referring to the McNamara case, said it had demonstrated to organized labor that if in the future it wished to command public sympathy and confidence, it must be prompt to disown all violence connected with the struggles of labor."

Throughout his address he urged upon both capital and labor greater tolerance and a broader spirit of understanding in their relations.

PUEBLO, Colo., March 5.—Deputy Sheriff Samuel Fabrizio left this morning for Missoula, Mont., to bring back to Pueblo, Robert Burke and Felix Serbert, under arrest at that place charged with having robbed the home of Banker John A. Thatcher, of Pueblo, on the night of February 3, of $10,000 worth of diamonds, other precious stones and jewelry. According to information from the Missoula authorities, Burke has made a full confession of the robbery, but does not mention Serbert as being his accomplice. After committing the robbery, according to the confession, Burke went to Denver, where he was arrested on suspicion. He asserts he managed to throw away thousands of dollars worth of the loot in the street without being detected.

KIMMEL JURY FAILS TO REACH AGREEMENT

Jury Out 73 Hours—Strange and Irregular Situation, Says Judge

ST. LOUIS, March ... The jury in ... was reported to Federal Judge ... F. Amidon ... agree ... Judge Amidon discharged it. The jury was out 73 hours.

A controversy ... was disclosed by a statement of Jurors McMyler and Sullivan made to the court in a written communication just before the discharge of the jury.

This statement was that the report of Monday, declaring the claimant not to be Kimmel, was a surprise to some of the jurors who had agreed to eliminate the claimant only "for the sake of the argument in order to get further instructions."

Foreman Schisler insisted that the statement handed in Monday against the protest of the jurors protested at the time represented their unanimous agreement. The judge refused to hear further arguments from the jurors and dismissed them.

When the jury was called in at 12:10 p. m., the judge asked Foreman Schisler whether an agreement had been reached.

Schisler replied in the negative and shook his head when the judge asked whether he could give any assistance. Then McIntyre asked permission to make a statement, and when the court indicated that he did not wish to hear a statement he handed over a written communication. The judge read it and called attorneys for a conference which lasted a few minutes. Then he said:

"The present situation is very strange and most irregular in a court of law. The jury is dismissed."

REFUSED FORTUNE WILLED BY FIANCE ON DEATH BED

DENVER, March 5.—For 30 years Miss Estelle Howard has worked as a cook and housemaid in Denver while a fortune of $200,000, willed to her by her fiance on his death bed, awaited her in her old home in Canaan, Maine.

When her fiance died, Miss Howard was 20 years old and the beauty and belle of Canaan and today she is alone, crippled with rheumatism and penniless in the county hospital.

All plans had been made for the wedding, which was to have been performed at the sickbed, when there was a sudden change for the worse in the condition of the young merchant whom Miss Howard was to marry. A lawyer was summoned and a will quickly drawn, bequeathing to Miss Howard the young merchant's private fortune and his interest in an inheritance. He also begged that she make her home with his father and mother.

Then the young man, holding the hand of the girl he loved and who would have been his wife the next day, died.

But Miss Howard's pride prevented her from accepting the fortune. When the attorneys and the parents of the young man insisted that she accept the fortune, she fled from the town.

KOUNTZE ESTATE VALUED AT MORE THAN $2,200,000

DENVER, March 5.—A partial inventory of the estate of the late Charles B. Kountze was filed in the county court this afternoon. The value of the property appraised thus far by the executors is listed at $2,200,000 but this does not include any of the mining properties held by Mr. Kountze, nor any of the shares of the mining stocks.

In the holdings listed in the inventory are, real estate in Denver, Adams, Boulder, Jefferson, Fremont, Pueblo, Weld and Park counties, in Montana, New Mexico, Texas, Nebraska and Illinois.

In the Colorado National bank Mr. Kountze had on deposit at the time of his death $29,000 in cash; in the First National bank of Omaha, $13,000 in cash; and in the Kountze Brothers bank of New York city, $59,000 in cash.

Mr. Kountze also owned 1,020 shares of stock in the Colorado National bank, which are valued at $306,000 and 317 shares in the First National bank of Omaha, valued at $155,000.

GOULD INTERESTS MAY GET COLORADO MIDLAND

Would Mean Double Tracks on Denver and Rio Grande to Grand Junction

DENVER, March ... railroad ... & Rio Grande railroad ... double tracked between ... Springs and Grand Junction ... the improvement will be the biggest known in the railroad ... mountain region, costing ... for the 235 miles of line.

This is to be done through acquisition by one of the Gould roads ... the Missouri Pacific or ... Pacific ... of the half interest of the Colorado & Southern in the Midland after the supreme court of New York passes upon the application ... made by the attorneys for ... Colorado & Southern for permission to sell that company's share in the Midland.

Blair & Company, an eastern banking firm that handles a ... Gould financing, has offered, it is said, $1,500,000 for half of the property providing the courts authorize the negotiation. There is no objection, it is understood, on the part of the bondholders who regard the Midland as being of no especial value as a security in view of the fact that both the owning roads have for several years been forced to aid it in meeting the interest on its bonded indebtedness.

According to the plan outlined by the Gould bankers, the Colorado & Southern's share of the Midland will be transferred soon after the purchase is approved by the courts to another line in the Gould system in order to avoid conflict with the state railroad act which prohibits one road from acquiring a parallel and competing line. This law would prevent the Rio Grande from taking part in the purchase directly.

Should the decision of the New York court be adverse the Goulds will make, it is said, an effort to obtain the consent in writing of all the holders of the bonds of the Chicago & Southern to the transfer.

POSSES AFTER HORSE THIEF

Arrest and Jail Delivery of Gunman Follows Release From State Prison

MEEKER, Colo., March 5.—Heavily armed posses, headed by sheriffs of two counties, Ellison of Rio Blanco and Ledford of Meeker, are searching the hills surrounding the town and all of the roads leading to the outside for Andrew Comstock, horse thief and gunman, lately discharged from the Wyoming state prison after serving time for stock rustling and who several weeks ago was again arrested in Moffat county for a similar offense and then brought here for safe keeping, and Willard Salternhite, of Denver, aged 21, who was awaiting trial on a charge of forgery. The two men were released from the Meeker jail last night by an accomplice of Comstock.

According to the story told by the third inmate of the jail, Louis Hurd of Maybell, the jail delivery was the result of a well prearranged plan. Hurd stated that the bars of the jail through which Comstock and Salterwhite escaped had been cut by this accomplice with the aid of a hack saw several nights ago and the work cleverly covered up.

How to "Shed a Bad Complexion

It's foolish to attempt to cover up or hide a sallow complexion, when you can so easily remove the sallowness, or the complexion itself. Rouge and the like on a brownish skin only emphasize the defect. The better way is to apply pure mercolized wax—the same as you would cold cream—putting it in at night, removing it in the morning with warm water, following with a dash of cold. The effect of a few applications is simply marvelous. The half-dead cuticle is absorbed by the wax—painlessly, gradually, in tiny, imperceptible particles—revealing the beautiful velvety-white new skin beneath.

No woman need have a sallow, blotchy, pimply or freckled complexion if she'll just go to the druggist's, get an ounce of good mercolized wax and use as suggested.—Woman's Realm.

DARROW HAS EVIDENCE FURNISHED GRAND JURY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 5.—Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago attorney, indicted on a charge of jury bribing, has in his possession a copy of the testimony given against him in the grand jury chamber by Bert H. Franklin, the former McNamara detective who recently was fined $4,000 after pleading guilty to a charge of having attempted to influence Robert F. Bain, the first juror sworn in the trial of James B. McNamara.

The copy of Franklin's testimony was given to Earl Rogers, chief counsel for Darrow, by W. Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney, who declared that the former detective's evidence in the presence of the grand jurors consisted practically of only one question and its answer.

"Was the money you paid to Robert F. Bain furnished you by Clarence S. Darrow?" was the question, according to Ford.

"Yes," was Franklin's answer.

The additional testimony was furnished the defense in accordance with the prosecution's offer to turn over all the evidence in its possession. The prosecution said it could not give greater obedience to the court's order to furnish a full transcript of evidence because an official stenographer had not been present at all the grand jury proceedings. The additional testimony also included that of C. R. Parker, assistant ... of ... San Francisco bank ... it was stated had testified that ... indicted by two federal ... on the charge of having engaged in a general conspiracy to transport dynamite ... maintained an account known as the "defense fund of the state building trades council."

Whether the Darrow defense will accept the additional grand jury imprisonment is a departure on the part of the magistrate and has caused dismay among the women.

TEACHERS MUST WEAR LONG SKIRTS AND HIGH NECKS

BUTTE, Mont., March 5.—Short skirts ... waists are out of place ... when worn by the members of the teaching force and were referred to as "wearing apparel abbreviated at both ends which must be worn no more in the state schools" by Superintendent Downer today at a general monthly meeting of the teachers. The superintendent did not attempt to specify just what a teacher should or should not wear. As to the exact meaning of a low necked waist the teachers claim that the superintendent did not mean a waist without a collar, but say—well, perhaps, a smaller waist without the shield or a shirtwaist "turned in" at the neck sufficiently to warrant the fear among the children that "teacher might catch cold."

ABOUT READY TO REST CASE AGAINST PACKERS

CHICAGO, March 5.—The government expects to rest its case in the trial of the 10 meat packers, charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law, tomorrow or Thursday.

The trial began December 8, was materially shortened today when both sides agreed to have read to the jury stipulated corporate statements describing the organization and financial condition of the four companies controlled by the defendants, instead of calling a score of witnesses to prove the facts.

When the government rests its case the defense will make a formal motion, asking Judge Carpenter to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of each defendant, on the ground that the government proof is insufficient. The argument on this motion will ... several days.

COAL OPERATORS REJECT DEMANDS

NEW YORK, March 5.—Demands of the anthracite coal miners for increased pay, recognition of the union, a shorter working day and other changes, were unanimously rejected this afternoon by 47 operators.

The operators adjourned after appointing a committee to acquaint the United Mine Workers of America with their decision. This committee, which is clothed with power to act, will formulate a reply for presentation to the miners on March 13.

The decisive action of the operators was unexpected. After the voting, however, one of the operators said the action would not prevent the committee from making a counter proposition to the miners.

The belief is growing among the operators that there will be no general strike of the 180,000 men in the Pennsylvania fields, but the operators would rather face a general strike than advance wages 20 per cent and in consequence be compelled to increase the price of coal.

clared repeatedly that he is not an active candidate for the nomination, but will accept if it comes to him as the demand of the voters of the party. His letter to Mr. Moore of Pittsburg, sent out by your headquarters last night and published in the newspapers this morning, is an additional proof of this attitude and of the fact that in now saying he will accept the nomination under the conditions specified, he is merely responding to a popular demand.

FEAR CUBA MIGHT BECOME SUBJECT FOR ARBITRATION IF TREATIES ARE RATIFIED

WASHINGTON, March 5. — Four hours' debate in the senate today seemed to indicate that the arbitration treaties with England and France probably would be ratified late tomorrow. The ratification will be the consummation of the first great move toward universal peace.

The target for the opponents of the treaties is the much discussed clause three, of article three. Some senators hold that this section delegates treaty making powers of the senate to a joint high commission. Around this clause ranged the running fire of amendments, ratification resolutions and the real fight upon the treaties themselves.

Senator Lodge said tonight that he expected a vote tomorrow and that while the vote on the committee amendment proposing to strike out clause three from the treaties probably would be close, he believed that the treaties, unamended, would be ratified with his resolution.

The speakers today were Senators Brown of Nebraska and Williams of Mississippi, who favored the treaties, and Senator Heyburn of Idaho, who opposed them. Senator Smith of Michigan, in a colloquy with Senator Heyburn, asked whether the so-called Platt amendment, by which the United States undertakes a certain sovereignty over Cuba, might not also become a subject of international inquiry if Article 3 were to be left in the treaty as submitted.

"We have spent millions and millions of dollars," Senator Smith said, "that the island might be free, and, having enjoined upon them certain condition for the maintenance of their freedom, we have elected to say that it shall not be within the power of that sovereign state to contract any obligations that would impair her sovereignty. If that question could not be inquired into by a tribunal, such as we seek to superimpose upon us by Article 3, I do not know of a controversy that can be taken before that tribunal. We are embarking upon a general scheme which begins nowhere and ends nowhere, and if we pass this treaty in the form in which it comes to us, there is not a senator in this body who can tell what questions we have resolved to arbitrate with Great Britain and France."

Senator Williams said he hoped to see an international court of arbitration to which all disputes among nations could be submitted. He said that none of the prerogatives of the senate would be surrendered by referring disputes to the proposed joint high commission.

NOW THAT EGGS ARE CHEAPER, HERE ARE SOME GOOD THINGS TO EAT

In the March Woman's Home Companion, Fannie Merritt Farmer says that many requests have come to her for dishes in which eggs play an all-important part, and she has been waiting for spring, when eggs are low in price, to publish several recipes of good dishes containing eggs. Following are two of her recipes:

"Vienna Cake—Beat the yolks of four eggs until thick and lemon-colored, and add gradually, while beating constantly, one cupful of fine granulated sugar. Then add three tablespoonfuls of cold water. Put one and one-half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a cup, and fill the cup with pastry flour (sifted once). Mix with one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Combine mixtures, and add one teaspoonful of lemon extract and the whites of six eggs, beaten until stiff. Turn into a buttered and floured [illegible] cake pan, and bake in a moderate oven from 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from pan, and cut crosswise so as to make four layers of equal thickness. Put between the top and bottom layers [illegible] In the center and over top and sides of cake put vanilla mocha filling [illegible] entire surface with nut [illegible]

"Mocha Filling—Scald two cupfuls of milk in a double boiler. Mix one [illegible] of [illegible] cupful of [illegible]. Add [illegible] gradually to scald [illegible] cook in double boiler 15 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and afterwards occasionally; then cool. Wash one cupful of butter, and work until creamy, then add cooled mixture and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of vanilla. To one-third of the mixture add one ounce of melted sweet chocolate, for the chocolate mocha filling."

THOUSANDS ATTENDING STOCKMEN'S CONVENTION

EL PASO, March 5.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Panhandle Stockmen's association convened in this city this morning with the largest attendance in the history of its organization, it being estimated that 3,000 visitors are in the city. The greater portion of the membership is present, numbering about 1,800, with many visitors from Chicago, Kansas City and other market centers, together with large delegations from New Mexico, Arizona and Mexico. The day's business was of the usual routine nature and included the changing of the name of the organization to the Panhandle and Southwestern Stockmen's association.

Officers of the Cattle Raisers' association of Texas are present with the proposition of a merger with that organization, but the indications are not favorable for the consolidation.

There is a strong fight being waged for the honor of entertaining the next annual meeting of the association between Amarillo, Tex., and Oklahoma City, Okla., with the odds apparently in favor of the Texas city.

the one man in sight to do the job, then I should regard myself as shirking a plain duty if I refused to do it.

Concerned With Welfare of People.

What I am interested in, remember, is not in the least holding the office, but doing a job that is actually worth doing. This is the position that, to the best of my belief I have always taken, and always shall take. If the people should feel that I was the instrument to be used at this time, I should accept, even although I knew that I should be broken and cast aside in the using.

In short, I am not concerned with the welfare of any one man in this matter, not with Mr. Taft's welfare, nor Mr. La Follette's; and, least of all, with my own; I am concerned only with the welfare of the people of the United States.

If, at this time, I announce that I would accept if nominated, it would be blazoned abroad by all my enemies, and ultimately believed by a large portion, even of my good friends and well wishers, that I had in my own interest announced my candidacy; that I was an active candidate; that I was striving by every means to secure the nomination for president. At this time—whatever may be the case in the future—I do not see that any other outcome could be expected. It is simply a case where the language would not be accepted at its exact face value, and would inevitably be given a false construction; and, this being so, it seems to be wise not to use language.

Gives an Illustration.

Let me illustrate what I mean by referring you to the language in which, after the election of 1904, I announced that I would not be a candidate for renomination. At the time good friends of mine suggested that I should use some such formula, stating that I would not be a candidate in 1908, because of the custom that had grown up not to elect a man as president for a third consecutive term; but, on thinking it over, I became convinced that if I used such language it would inevitably be taken as an announcement that I would be a candidate for another term in 1912—and this in spite of the fact, that of course, the language, if taken literally, would only have referred to 1908, and have no more bearing on 1912 than on 1916 or 1948.

Accordingly I used language which simply stated that I paid heed to the essence and not the form of wise custom of our forefathers in reference to the third term. The essence of course being that the custom applied just as much when my first term was the filling out of an unexpired term of my predecessor as if it had been an elective term, and that on the other hand, it had no application whatever to the candidacy of a man who was not at the time in office, whether he had or had not been president before. Yet, even as it was, men at once began to ask me whether my remark was to be held to apply to 1912 or to 1916; to which I of course responded that it would be preposterous to answer any such question one way or the other.

Such People Not Honest.

By the way, I may recall to you that the very papers which are howling now to have me make some public statement, are the ones which, four and five years ago, when I had made a definite public statement, were continually howling I should make some additional statement. These people, such as the editors of the newspapers above referred to, are not honest; they do not wish the truth, and to pay any heed to their demands would be worse than folly.

Nothing I could say, no statement or explanation by me, would avail to prevent deliberate misrepresentation by bad men, [illegible] the misled good men, who, in the affairs of the case, could not be [illegible] to have first-hand information. They now misrepresent my position deliberately and purposely [illegible] would [illegible] if I should at [illegible] the [illegible]

If [illegible] I should certainly act [illegible] the way I am [illegible] aware that the [illegible] the way in which to act if I [illegible] to [illegible] neither wise nor proper for me to do so, the conditions being what they actually are.

To Be Judged by His Acts.

I have been president. I was president for nearly eight years. I am well known to the American people. I am to be judged not by words but by my acts [illegible]

even a strongly aroused public opinion generally fails to find expression. Therefore I have all along felt that even if there should be a strong popular demand for me (as to which I can give no judgment) yet, unless this demand were literally overwhelming it could hardly make itself effective.

But it seems to me that it is better that it should not make itself effective rather than that by any action of mine, I should make it seem that I desire the presidency for my own sake, or am willing to accept it unless it comes to me as the result of a real popular movement, giving expression to a demand from at least a substantial portion of the plain people, that I should undertake a given task in the interest of the people as a whole. Before I speak there should be some tangible evidence that such is the case.

With very high regard, faithfully yours,

HEAVY GUARD FOR SECY. KNOX'S TRAIN

MANAGUA, March 5.—The American secretary of state and his party traveled from Corinto today to Managua on a special train which was heavily guarded in consequence of anti-Knox and anti-American propaganda industriously circulated by expatriated Colombians. These represented that the visit of Secretary Knox meant further American domination.

A pilot train carrying 50 soldiers, with a machine gun in position, preceded the special, while a third train followed carrying 100 soldiers with another machine gun.

The 100 miles between Corinto and Managua was traveled in six hours, the train stopping occasionally for a close inspection of the tracks. No untoward incident occurred.

Secretary Knox arrived here from Corinto at 9 o'clock and was accorded a hearty welcome. A platform had been erected near the station from which President Adolfo Diaz greeted the secretary.

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

From Tit-Bits.

A local preacher who was in the habit of taking his wife with him to his preaching appointments said, on arrival at the chapel, "My dear, you go in there; you will be all right. I must go round to the vestry."

In the vestibule the wife was met by a kind-hearted steward, who, after giving her a hearty welcome and a hymn book, conducted her to a comfortable seat.

At the close of the service the same kind-hearted steward gave her a hearty shake of the hand, adding how pleased he would be to see her at the services each Sunday. Then, whispering, he said:

"But, let me tell you, we don't get a duffer like this in the pulpit every Sunday."

SCORES GAYNOR FOR HIS CRITICISM IN BRANDT CASE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5.—Not a day passes without a fresh contribution to the complex literature of the Brandt case from some state official. The latest development comes from Attorney General Carmody, who takes up the cudgels against Mayor Gaynor for the latter's attack on some of the court procedure in the case.

Another of Madero's Trusted Lieutenants Joins Revolution

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—Ambrosio Figueroa, Madero's trusted chief of rurales in Guerrero and Morelos, and during the previous revolution his great ally in the south, is reported in revolt.

The news caused a sensation among the southern Maderistas, 1,117 of whom have re-enlisted under the banner of the new revolution. Figueroa's grievances is alleged to be the president's action in listening to a proposal from Jesus Salgado, the Guerrero rebel, whom Figueroa had been fighting many weeks, that Figueroa be retired from Guerrero on a promise of the other's surrender. Salgado is said to have boasted that his promise meant nothing.

It was semiofficially admitted today that Orozco has gone over to the enemy. His defection was said to be no great surprise to Madero, for the reason that the former revolutionary leader, on his last visit to the capital, demanded and was refused 50,000 pesos to make up 100,000 pesos which he claimed for loss and damage sustained in the previous revolution. When he returned to Chihuahua, he soon tendered his resignation as chief of the Maderista forces.

The French consulate here appeared to have no news of the coming of a French warship. The exodus of foreigners continued unabated tonight. The regular northbound train via Laredo, in two sections, carried two extra sleeping cars in a total of four, and several extra day coaches with all available space occupied. One sleeper was filled with women and children from El Oro, a mining camp 100 miles northwest of here.

Foreign Women Gone.

It is declared in well informed quarters that two thirds of the foreign women and children have left or have made all preparations to leave the country and many of the wealthy Mexican families are likewise departing.

Members of the German and British colonies held meetings last night and today, but no definite plan had been arrived at tonight.

President Madero bitterly denounced Orozco today in the course of an address to about 100 cadets at the national palace, giving the first official acknowledgment that his erstwhile chief had deserted the Madero standard.

About 70 of the cadets will leave at once for the campaign against Orozco.

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—Following the cabinet meeting today the first in which Angel Garcia Pena, the new war minister has taken part, it was said tonight that a proposal is being considered to remove the entire garrison of 2,000 regular soldiers from the capital and to replace them with militia. No militia has been formed, although their enlistment has been discussed for two months.

While it is stated by cabinet officers that a plan of campaign to meet the rebel encroachments from the north has been worked out, no details have been made public.

Rebels Control Chihuahua.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., March 5.—Rebels are in control of the entire state of Chihuahua tonight. Col. Pancho Villa and his force are still in the state but so outnumbered as to be ineffective. The column under Generals Salazar and Campa moved to the city this afternoon from Sauz and with Orozco's men are in camp at the edge of the city. All saloons were closed by order of Orozco. An immense crowd welcomed the column from Juarez.

Under Orozco's immediate command are 800 former government troops. The rebel generals tonight declared that the numerous volunteers who are offering themselves will soon swell the rebel army to 6,000 men who will be taken south to secure control of Durango, Torreon and all other towns between here and the city of Mexico.

The misunderstanding by which General Salazar delayed entering Chihuahua apparently has been cleared up. On the surface at least all distrust of Orozco has disappeared.

A report from Parral says that Jose Dela Lusoto with a small detachment of federals has joined Villa.

Flee in Any Kind of Conveyance.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 5.—Trains, automobiles and vehicles of all kinds poured into Douglas today carrying practically the entire American population of El Tigre, Nacozari, and Cananea.

A report was brought here today that Colonel Francisco Chiapas, a field leader for President Diaz, who fought Madero in the last revolution and who had been in jail at Hermosillo, has been deputized by Madero to take the field against the rebels.

The report produced consternation among the rebels and their sympathizers.

Army Militia Ready.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 5.—Brig.-Gen. Ralph D. Smith, commanding the department of Texas, with [illegible] today [illegible] at Fort Sam Houston [illegible] to [illegible] for [illegible] Texas [illegible] suitable for mobilization camps for state militia as a precautionary measure against such conditions as prevailed at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. He denied that the situation in Mexico influenced his visit to Texas at this time.

Foreign Residents in Panic.

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—A telegram from Mazatlan states that the American consul's notification to Americans to concentrate in that city has created a panic among foreign residents of the district.

EL PASO, Tex., March 5. One hundred and fifty Americans, mostly women and children from the American lumbering town of Madera, were brought into El Paso tonight from Pearson, which was their first stopping place after leaving Madera. They were brought here by the Mexican Northwestern railway. Another train bringing refugees from Chihuahua is expected over the Mexican Central by midnight. With the exception of a small hospital staff at Pearson, every woman and child in the towns of Madera and Pearson, Mex., is on United States soil.

These assert that for weeks they have been practically isolated and living in a state of terror. With neither wire nor train communication, and mails demoralized, they have been cut off completely from the outside world and almost constantly menaced by marauding bands. Business at Madera, they declare, is nil. Today, it is said by the refugees, the mills of the Madera Lumber company were closed, hundreds of workmen being thrown out of employment.

Glad to Be on U. S. Soil.

Men and women closely associated with the Madera company, which controls practically all business in both Madera and Pearson, say to the contrary that quiet rules in both towns and that they came to the United States in response to the president's proclamation. They, however, admit depredations by Rojas and his men and expressed keen gratification at being on American soil and seeing for the first time in months the olive drab uniform of United States troops.

A. J. Halton of Madera, an officer of the Madera company, said that it was considered advisable to obey President Taft's warning to the extent of sending all women and children to the United States. About 400 American men are left at Madera. These are fully armed and able to meet any situation that may arise.

Enrique E. Bowman, a merchant of Colonial Dublan, a town 60 miles north of Pearson, stated frankly that in his district conditions could not be worse. The rebels, Bowman declared, were wandering here and there, burning property, stealing horses, raiding and looting.

A pitiable aspect of the exodus is revealed in the case of George Snell and his family who just preceding their residence at Madera were refugees from the Austin, Pa., flood. They fled from Madera practically without preparation, leaving behind their home and stock.

Rebels Seize Company's Stores

Miss Elizabeth Snell, a daughter, cashier at the Madera company's store, declares that the Rojas band demanded $2,000 in cash from her.

"I did not have the money," said Miss Snell, "so they took about $2,000 worth of clothing and food, charged it to the government and gave the company a receipt. About 25 of them rode their horses into the American hotel and fired their guns, filling guests with terror. They burned the Mexican part of the town and took hundreds of horses belonging to Mexican residents. I think conditions there are very bad and I am glad to be in the United States."

In this Miss Snell is borne out by members of her family and many others.

Anarchy Reigns in Chihuahua.

Mrs. D. H. Bollser, a bride of a few months, who formerly lived at Coalinga, Cal., left Madera with a large party of friends. Mrs. Bollser says that for months she has been living in a state of alarm, not at any time knowing what would happen next. She confirms all statements to the effect that Chihuahua is in a state of anarchy.

Two rails were removed from the approach to the International bridge by General Rojas' orders this afternoon to prevent rolling stock from being removed to the American side.

from Mr. Roosevelt and his campaign.'

"In this demand," the statement says, "they are only indicating their ignorance of the fact that Mr. Perkins probably would have lost his job long ago had it not been for his intimate friendship with Mr. Roosevelt running back over many years.

"While still remaining a director of the steel corporation and of the International Harvester company, Mr. Perkins recently has severed himself from many of his business connections and now is devoting much of his time to solving the problems of the times.

"The great, great work along this line to which Mr. Perkins is now directing his undivided attention and his pocketbook is the nomination and election of Mr. Roosevelt to a third term as president."

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The national Roosevelt headquarters today gave out a statement which said:

"Further evidence of the manner in which the administration campaign managers are conducting the fight for delegates has come to light in the form of a circular letter which is being sent to the postmasters and other federal employes throughout the northwest. That a similar form of letter is being sent out through the south has already been stated but the terms have not as yet come to light.

"The letters received by the federal employes in the northwest are very delicately worded. Such letters as only the pen of the diplomatic Mr. McKinley could well turn out and abound with veiled threats and plastic praise. Boundless enthusiasm is expected and it is declared without hesitation that the sentiment in favor of the nomination of President Taft is rapidly growing. Hints are then thrown out that assistance of all good office holders is needed, Mr. McKinley evidently forgetting the optimism expressed in the preceding paragraph.

"Already several hundred of these letters have been sent out, it is stated, and more, said to contain a more personal tone, are in course of preparation for serving to job holders who have displayed reluctance to rally to the support of the administration. In these latter epistles, it is stated, the hints as to what will be the portion of federal servants who fail to faithfully serve the interests of President Taft are made more plain."

With the statement the Roosevelt headquarters gave out a copy of one of the Taft circular letters, addressed in blank. After expressing optimism as to the outlook for Mr. Taft and the opening of the national Taft bureau the letter concludes:

"It will be the aim of this bureau to conduct a dignified and energetic campaign in keeping with the president's high conception of American statesmanship. I would, therefore, thank you to render such assistance as you can consistent with your duties, and would appreciate an early reply giving me such information as in your judgment will facilitate the work of the bureau.

"Very truly yours,
"WM. B. McKINLEY, Director."

Thatcher of Pueblo on the night of February 3, of $10,000 worth of diamonds, other precious stones and jewelry. KIMMEL JURY FAILS TO REACH AGREEMENT

Jury Out 73 Hours. Strange and Irregular Situation, Says Judge

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—The jury in the Kimmel insurance case reported to federal Judge Charles F. Amidon at noon today that it was unable to agree on a decision. Judge Amidon discharged it. The jury was out 73 hours.

A controversy in the jury room was disclosed by a statement of Jurors McMyler and Sullivan, made to the court in a written communication just before the discharge of the jury.

This statement was that the report of Monday, declaring the claimant not to be Kimmel, was a surprise to some of the jurors who had agreed to eliminate the claimant only "for the sake of the argument" in order to get further instructions.

Foreman Schistler insisted that the statement handed in Monday against which none of the jurors protested at the time, represented their unanimous agreement. The judge refused to hear further arguments from the jurors and dismissed them.

When the jury was called in at 12:10 p. m. the judge asked Foreman Schisler whether an agreement had been reached.

Schisler replied in the negative and shook his head when the judge asked whether he could give any assistance. Then McIntyre asked permission to make a statement, and when the court indicated that he did not wish to hear a statement he handed over a written communication. The judge read it and called attorneys for a conference, which lasted a few minutes. Then he said:

"The present situation is very strange and most irregular in a court of law. The jury is dismissed."

REFUSED FORTUNE WILLED BY FIANCE ON DEATH BED

DENVER, March 5.—For 30 years Miss Estelle Howard has worked as a cook and housemaid in Denver while a fortune of $200,000, willed to her by her fiance on his death bed, awaited her in her old home in Canaan, Maine.

When her fiance died, Miss Howard was 20 years old and the beauty and belle of Canaan and today she is alone, crippled with rheumatism and penniless in the county hospital.

All plans had been made for the wedding, which was to have been performed at the sickbed, when there was a sudden change for the worse in the condition of the young merchant whom Miss Howard was to marry. A lawyer was summoned and a will quickly drawn, bequeathing to Miss Howard the young merchant's private fortune and his interest in an inheritance. He also begged that she make her home with his father and mother.

Then the young man, holding the hand of the girl he loved and who would have been his wife the next day, died.

But Miss Howard's pride prevented her from accepting the fortune. When the attorneys and the parents of the young man insisted that she accept the fortune, she fled from the town.

GOULD INTERESTS MAY GET COLORADO MIDLAND

Would Mean Double Tracks on Denver and Rio Grande to Grand Junction

DENVER, March 5.—Rumors are current in railroad circles here that before the end of the year the Denver & Rio Grande railroad will be virtually double tracked between Colorado Springs and Grand Junction and the improvement will be the cheapest known in the railroad history of the mountain region, costing only $150,000 for the 375 miles of line.

This is to be done through acquisition by one of the Gould roads, either the Missouri Pacific or the Western Pacific, of the half interest of the Colorado & Southern in the Midland after the supreme court of New York passes upon the application recently made by the attorneys for the Colorado & Southern for permission to sell that company's share in the Midland.

Blair & Company, an eastern banking firm that handles a part of the Gould financing, has offered, it is said, $150,000 for half of the property providing the courts authorize its segregation. There is no objection, it is understood, on the part of the bondholders who regard the Midland as being of no especial value as a security in view of the fact that both the owning roads have for several years been forced to aid it in meeting the interest on its bonded indebtedness.

According to the plan outlined by the Gould bankers the Colorado & Southern's share of the Midland will be transferred soon after the purchase is approved by the courts to another line in the Gould system in order to avoid conflict with the state railroad act which prohibits one road from acquiring a parallel and competing line. This law would prevent the Rio Grande from taking part in the purchase directly.

Should the decision of the New York court be adverse the Goulds will make, it is said, an effort to obtain the consent in writing of all the holders of the bonds of the Chicago & Southern to the transfer.

POSSES AFTER HORSE THIEF

Arrest and Jail Delivery of Gunman Follows Release From State Prison

MEEKER, Colo., March 5.—Heavily armed posses, headed by sheriffs of two counties, Ellison of Rio Blanco and Ledford of Meeker, are searching the hills surrounding the town and all of the roads leading to the outside for Andrew Comstock, horse thief and gunman, lately discharged from the Wyoming state prison after serving time for stock rustling and who several weeks ago was again arrested in Moffat county for a similar offense and then brought here for safe keeping, and Willard Salterwhite of Denver, aged 21 who was awaiting trial on a charge of forgery. The two men were released from the Meeker jail last night by an accomplice of Comstock.

According to the story told by the third inmate of the jail, Louis Hurd of Maybell, the jail delivery was the result of a well prearranged plan. Hurd stated that the bars of the jail through which Comstock and Salterwhite escaped had been cut by this accomplice with the aid of a hack saw several nights ago and the work cleverly covered up.

How to "Shed a Red Complexion

It's foolish to attempt to cover up or hide a sallow complexion, when you can so easily remove the sallowness, or the complexion itself. Rouge and the like on a brownish skin only emphasize the defect. The better way is to apply pure mercolized wax—the same as you would cold cream—putting it in at night, removing it in the morning with warm water, following with a dash of cold. The effect of a few applications is simply marvelous. The half-dead cuticle is absorbed by the wax—painlessly, gradually, in tiny, imperceptible particles — revealing the beautiful velvety-white new skin beneath.

No woman need have a sallow, blotchy, pimply or freckled complexion if she'll just go to the druggist's, get an ounce of good mercolized wax and use as suggested.—Woman's Realm.

RECOGNITION RIGHT OF LABOR UNIONS

Seth Low Advises Cooperation of Employer and Employe. Eulogizes Workers

WASHINGTON, March [illegible] [illegible]

Referring to the fact that Samuel [illegible] of the American Federation of Labor was vice president of the Civic Federation, Mr. Low said that the organization had been [illegible] employers be those [illegible] relationship with [illegible] he declared had [illegible] largely on the alleged mistakes of labor individuals or unions.

The National Civic federation is not unaware of those mistakes and those misdeeds on the part of individuals and sometimes of whole unions," he said. "The federation, however, declines to lay emphasis only on the mistakes and misdeeds of organized labor. It prefers to look above and beyond such incidents which in a certain sense are parts of all human struggle toward the inspiring object of organized labor which is to improve the condition of that vast body of men and women and children who toil with their hands for their daily bread."

President Low dwelt at length on the advantages created under the trade agreement plan between employer and employe. Bargaining between capital and labor he pointed out had reached industrial friction and had virtually abolished serious industrial warfare. Mr. Low applauded the philosophy of the American Federation of Labor that though the interests of labor and of capital were not identical they were usually reconcilable.

"The acceptance of this philosophy by labor," he said, "always means an effort on its part to find a basis of honorable agreement between organized labor and its employers. It means a constantly increasing number of trade agreements governing hours, wages and conditions of employment between the international unions of organized labor and the national organizations representing employers."

Mr. Low, referring to the McNamara case said it had demonstrated to organized labor that if in the future it wished to command public sympathy and confidence, it must be prompt to disown all violence connected with the struggles of labor."

Throughout his address he urged upon both capital and labor greater tolerance and a broader spirit of understanding in their relations.

DARROW HAS EVIDENCE FURNISHED GRAND JURY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 5.—Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago attorney indicted on a charge of jury bribing has in his possession a copy of the testimony given against him in the grand jury chamber by Bert H. Franklin, the former McNamara detective who recently was fined $4,000 after pleading guilty to a charge of having attempted to influence Robert F. Bain, the first juror sworn in the trial of James B. McNamara.

The copy of Franklin's testimony was given to Earl Rogers, chief counsel for Darrow, by W. Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney, who declared that the former detective's evidence in the presence of the grand jurors consisted practically of only one question and its answer.

"Was the money you paid to Robert F. Bain furnished you by Clarence S. Darrow," was the question, according to Ford.

"Yes," was Franklin's answer.

The additional testimony was furnished the defense in accordance with the prosecution's offer to turn over all the evidence in its possession. The prosecution said it could not give greater obedience to the court's order to furnish a full transcript of evidence because an official stenographer had not been present at all the grand jury proceedings. The additional testimony also included that of C. R. Parker, assistant cashier of a San Francisco bank who it was stated had testified that O. A. Tveitmoe, indicted by two federal juries on the charge of having engaged in a general conspiracy to transport dynamite illegally, maintained an account known as the "defense fund of the state building trades council."

Whether the Darrow defense will accept the additional grand jury imprisonment is a departure on the part of the magistrate and has caused dismay among the women.

TEACHERS MUST WEAR LONG SKIRTS AND HIGH NECKS

BUTTE, Mont., March 5.—Short skirts and [illegible] necked waists are out of place in the school room when worn by the members of the teaching force, and were referred to as "wearing apparel abbreviated at both ends which must be worn no more in the state schools" by Superintendent Downer today at a general monthly meeting of the teachers. The superintendent did not attempt to specify just what a teacher should or should not wear. As to the exact meaning of a low necked waist the teachers claim that the superintendent did not mean a waist without a collar, but say—well, perhaps, a smaller waist without the shield or a shirtwaist "turned in" at the neck sufficiently to warrant the fear among the children that "teacher might catch cold."

Instead of bringing out that old last season's hat, wouldn't it be worth your while to make a selection of a New Spring Hat?

It will greatly add to your appearance.

Gov. Johnson to Begin Active Campaign in West for Roosevelt

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March [illegible].—Governor Johnson issued a statement today announcing that he would soon begin an active campaign in this state and possibly in the east in behalf of the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for president of the United States. While he has not determined when he will begin it is thought that next week will see the real opening of the Roosevelt campaign in California after the petitions to place the former president's name on the primary ballot have been filed.

"For the first time in the nation's history," says the governor, "each side has its leader, and the words of neither can be misunderstood.

"Mr. Roosevelt is the champion of the Progressive cause. Mr. Taft of the reactionary. The battle of the nation will be simply a repetition of that which we have had in California, if the people are to be permitted the power of expression."

ABOUT READY TO REST CASE AGAINST PACKERS

CHICAGO, March 5.—The government expects to rest its case in the trial of the 10 meat packers, charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law, tomorrow or Thursday.

The trial, begun December 6, was materially shortened today when both sides agreed to have read to the jury stipulated corporate statements describing the organization and financial condition of the four companies controlled by the defendants, instead of calling a score of witnesses to prove the facts.

When the government rests its case the defense will make a formal motion, asking Judge Carpenter to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of each defendant, on the ground that the government proof is insufficient. The argument on this motion will occupy several days.

PROSPECTS OF FIGHT OVER BATTLESHIP APPROPRIATION

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Prospects of another fight over a public building bill and battleship appropriation were revived today when Representative Burnett of Alabama, acting chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds, called a meeting of the committee for next Friday and made the declaration that if a battleship appropriation were restored to the democratic program there would also be a public building bill.

VIGILANCE SOCIETY TO FIGHT WHITE SLAVERY

CHICAGO, March [illegible].—Chicago is to be the headquarters of a national war [illegible] the white slave traffic [illegible] of the United States. The society formation within the last [illegible] weeks of a national organization has obtained almost unlimited capital and a large number of the most influential citizens of the country [illegible] through [illegible] to secure a federal charter in Washington.

Immediately following this Clifford W. Barnes, chairman of the executive committee, issued the first official announcement of a program of private and governmental cooperation for enforcing the law on a scale which is declared to be without parallel in the history of this country.

The cordial cooperation of local police, of state's attorneys and the federal department of justice already has been obtained by the new organization, which is named the American Vigilance association. The association is assured the assistance of similar societies in European countries in procuring treaties for the international regulation of an import trade, which is said to furnish the most difficult phase of the entire situation.

The association will maintain a large force of detectives and expert investigators and prosecutors which it will place at the disposal of local committees.

In each city the cooperation of the local police and the state and federal prosecutors of the district will be secured for concerted action. The attorney general of the United States, as well as the chief prosecutors in many of the states and many police departments are in cordial sympathy with the work.

A campaign for state and national legislation better fitted for dealing with the situation than that now in existence will be prosecuted by the association.

ARGUMENTS ON HOUSE STEEL TARIFF BILL ARE RESUMED

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The senate finance committee today resumed arguments on the house steel tariff revision bill. Edwin M. Herr of Pittsburg, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Thomas E. Pratt of the general electric company, Thomas D. Bradstreet of Thomason Conn., and Walter Camp of New Haven, Conn., representing clock manufacturers, testified in opposition to the bill.

The Mississippi legislature has adopted a resolution requesting the governor to designate by proclamation a "good roads and rural school consolidation week."

ROOSEVELT'S INDEPENDENT POSITION

THE New York World, a Democratic paper and perhaps the most consistent enemy of Theodore Roosevelt in American journalism, has this to say of its pet aversion:

Mr Roosevelt has no power to nominate himself for a third term or elect himself to a third term He is simply a private citizen He is in control of none of the agencies of government, either civil or military He can reward nobody He can coerce nobody. He can punish nobody. Not a single bayonet is back of his candidacy, not even the night stick of a solitary policeman. No voter has been or can be conscripted into the Roosevelt service, nor can a dollar be drafted for his campaign fund except with the free and full consent of its owner. All of the frenzy and folly of his supporters is a voluntary manifestation.

The World never was known to say anything good of Roosevelt, if it could help itself. But in this case it has done so unconsciously.

T. R. stands on his own feet He is making his fight, and he is making a man's fight. He has already proclaimed what everybody knows to be the disgraceful truth, that a president of the United States can always renominate himself if he is shrewd enough to make the best use of his Federal patronage

Taft has in his control a horde of Southern postmasters, representing almost no voting constituency, who can go into the Chicago convention and perhaps turn the balance in his favor. He has the support of the thousands of Federal officeholders all over the country who will be loyal to him because he gave them their jobs. He has the support of that portion of the press which is influenced by these officeholders and by the big financial interests that are for Taft because they are afraid of Roosevelt.

Yet here is a man, William H Taft, President of the United States and candidate for another nomination, who is afraid to trust his fate to the voters of his party in primary elections. Roosevelt asks that the Republicans of every state in the country be given a chance to say at the polls whether he or Mr. Taft shall be their presidential nominee. But Mr. Taft pins his faith to machine politics, and relies on the strength of the Federal machine to renominate him, whether the voters of his party want him or not.

In this country when a public official is afraid to trust his case to the people there is good reason for believing that it is because he knows how little the people trust him.

THE NAVAL PROGRAM

FOR the last fourteen years, or since the war with Spain, the United States has adhered to a program of naval increase of a more definite kind than it ever had attempted before. The practice of European nations is to map out a comprehensive plan of naval maintenance for a term of perhaps twenty years in the future, which is adhered to rigidly Before the Spanish War our navy had grown in a hit-or-miss fashion. Often a session of Congress passed without an appropriation for new vessels; but perhaps in the next session lavish grants of money would be made for naval increase.

But the lessons of the Spanish War taught the importance of a more systematic method of developing sea power, and Congress settled down to a policy of voting each year two new battleships, with whatever auxiliary vessels the Navy Department could coax from it. The effect of this policy has been to make the United States second in rank among the naval powers of the earth. Germany, starting fifteen years ago from a smaller beginning, has been building its navy at a faster rate, until now it has overtaken the United States, and the two nations are of equal strength on the sea. Unless we immediately redouble our efforts the Germans will pass us and we shall drop back to third place.

Fortunately it is not especially important that this possibility be avoided. There is no probability of war between Germany and the United States there is no disagreement between the two nations that seems likely to become a casus belli. German jealousy of British prestige is unquestionably the reason for the present tremendous activity in German naval shipyards The upbuilding of a strong German navy can scarcely be construed as a menace to American interests, whatever its significance may be in England and other European countries.

MAY BE FALSE ECONOMY.

Nevertheless, there is nothing so comfortable as the sense of security that comes with the possession of the power of self-protection The nation with a superior military force, on land or sea, or both, is like the man with plenty of money in the bank and no debts in panicky times—it has nothing to fear The cost of militarism is oppressive, it is the heaviest burden borne by civilization, but under present conditions it is necessary.

The fact that every first-rate power in the world continues each year to vote the necessary appropriations, shows that the people of these nations, as a whole, prefer to tax themselves inordinately for defense rather than risk foreign aggression. They think it better, under present conditions, to pay the heavy cost of insurance involved in maintaining large navies, than to take the chance of devastation by a stronger power which, as shown by history, is the fate of the weak

A few weeks ago the House majority voted to omit the usual appropriation for two new battleships at this session. The reason was economy, and as an evidence of good faith the caucus at the same time voted to cut out the public buildings appropriations. The estimated saving on these two items is about $40,000,000—$24,000,000 for the Navy and $16,000,000 for public buildings

Simultaneously there comes what purports to be an authoritative report of the development of an entirely new type of internal combustion engine by German naval architects, which is declared to be as revolutionary in its effect on naval construction as was the dreadnought type of battleship. According to the report the internal combustion type of engine has been perfected for naval use to such an extent that it is entirely practicable If this is true it means that the warships of the future will burn gasoline and will be relatively smokeless.

One may be entirely convinced that militarism is the greatest curse of modern civilization, and at the same time justly defend its continuance until a better means of preserving the world's peace can be devised. It is a grave question whether anything is to be gained by curtailing naval expenditures, until such time as the sober commonsense of the world has devised something better.

THE DAILY CHAT — BY RUTH CAMERON

In a Boston lodging house, a young woman killed herself the other day, because she discovered that the man to whom she had thought herself engaged for 14 years was a married man

He had been married 20 years. He had a son 16 years old and his home was right in the same city where this girl boarded and worked as a waitress.

And yet for 14 years, he had been able to deceive her as to his true position in society

In some way her suspicions were aroused and she went to his home, found his wife there, saw his child, and then went back to her lodging and put a bullet through her heart.

Coming to make his usual call the next day, the man—if we do not too much degrade the word by calling him that—found her dead body stretched out on the couch Perhaps he received some of his punishment then and there. Perhaps he was too much hardened by the life of systematic deception which he had led for 14 years to mind this little incident very much. Who knows?

But I did not bring up this dismal subject to speculate on that phase of it. The point I want to bring out is this—doesn't the uncovering of such a double life bring home to you fathers and mothers the necessity of knowing all you possibly can about the young men who are paying court to your daughters?

Of course, it is most unlikely perhaps impossible that such conditions should exist in your case as these which brought this poor little waitress to prefer to seek the undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveler returns, rather than face the dreary wreck her life had become But what do you really know about the man who comes to see your Louise or your Dorothy and takes her to the theater and the dance etc Do you know who his people are, and what his past is and what is thought of him in his home town? To be sure there is no formal engagement between your Louise or your Dorothy and this man but is it well to wait until there is, to find out that he wasn't a fit man even to have entered your home?

An agonized father wrote to me the other day from a distant city to tell me that he had discovered that the young man to whom his daughter was insisting on becoming engaged was the son of a woman who kept a house of ill repute. He has tried to break off the engagement between the two, but as the daughter is of legal age if not of the age of reason, has had much difficulty He wants me to try to make the girl see that a little unhappiness now is better than a life of misery. I wish with all my heart I could help him save her In this case, the introduction was performed by a trusted friend of the family, who ought to have been more worthy of the trust imposed in him, but there are many cases where the parents have only themselves to blame for such tragic conditions

Know the man who calls on your daughter Know his family Know his past It may be that you will neglect this duty to her with impunity It may be that you will sow the seeds of life-long tragedy by such neglect

Do you care to take the chance?

And you daughters who for reasons of death or distance or for any other cause have no father or mother to do such investigating for you, do it for yourselves Ask the man who says he loves you to take you to call on his mother You can judge pretty accurately by her and his home if everything is as it should be Furthermore take any other course that is open to you to find out about his character and his past life

And don't say that any such investigation would be distrusting John and you won't insult him that way That's what the poor little waitress probably would have said

To Snowbound

Little drops of water
Little grains of sand,
Make the mighty ocean
And the pleasant land

So,

Little balmy breezes
Little flakes of snow
Make the mighty cyclone

Hope that he'll remain with us

THE Y. W. C. A. REST ROOM

To the Editor of The Gazette

May I say a few words through the medium of the Open Parliament regarding our Y. W C A, calling the attention of the women of our little city to the rooms in the De Graff building on Tejon street and the most excellent luncheons being served there daily from 11 30 a m to 2 30 p m? Luncheons down town for whatever reason, those having vocations or employment, shoppers all will find here a comfortable place to rest, besides the opportunity of getting a good, wholesome lunch What is there to eat? All the good things one usually likes for luncheon Generally a specialty each day, something most everybody likes The other day it was chicken pie, with that nice, thick flaky crust. Delicious! The very kind mother used to make. Ice cream made of the best materials and pure. The menu is varied each day. There is roast leg of mutton, roast beef, meat loaf, fish balls, chile con carne Everything with that savory, home-cooked flavor, and promptly served Then on Saturday night a light supper is served from 5 to 7 for the convenience of those having to remain down town If one is weary and wants to rest, there is the rest room with its couch and easy chairs, writing material, all the late magazines and the local daily papers are provided should one wish to occupy herself while resting or waiting the arrival of a friend

But, best of all, in the patronizing of such an altruistic organization as the Y. W. C. A. is in its broadest sense, is the opportunity for the discovery of our other selves and the cultivation of the spirit of "each-other-ness" It's a wonderful chance for many delightful voyages of discovery, and one in lending a hand by her presence and influence, may find many happy surprises awaiting her as well as adding to the comfort of the physical self.

MENACE OF FOREIGN IMMIGRATION.

From the Pittsburg Gazette Times.

The real menace to the native population, if the observation of educators is correct, lies in its neglect of those opportunities which the foreigner appreciates most highly Affluence and exaggerated ego have made the young American take things easy Here is the real menace he faces, and the remedy is in his own hand Let him remember that the fit will survive and be fit.

Sunflower Philosophy

The time approaches, Mr. Man, when you will take the sprinkling can, and rake and spade and hoe, and blow yourself for sacks of seeds which will overflow all kinds of weeds when they begin to grow. It is a strange, noteworthy thing, that with the coming of the spring man yearns to delve the ground, to labor with the fragrant soil as Father Adam used to toil, to fuss and puffer 'round. He dreams of finer cabbageheads and cucumbers and onion beds than ever man has seen; and he will raise the finest slaw and sauerkraut, both boiled and raw, that ever were theground. Experience might teach him that his visions will be broken flat, his garden be a fake, that all the harvest he will get will be a crippling fill of sweat, and fifty kinds of ache. But man forgets his former woes when Gentle Annie comes and blows upon her fairy pipe; once more the luscious soil he digs and plants again his thingumajigs, his cauliflower and tripe. We've civilized the human race until there remains in a trace of old primeval man, save when the springtime makes us ache to tinker with the hoe and rake and spade and sprinkling can.

The Great Conflict

A Half Century Ago Today

MARCH 6, 1862

John Ericsson's turreted ironclad Monitor sailed for Fortress Monroe.

President Lincoln's views on the emancipation of the slaves were developed in a message sent to congress Declaring his belief that emancipation must be gradual and not sudden President Lincoln suggested that the house and senate join in resolutions offering "that the United States ought to cooperate with any state which may adopt a gradual abolishment of slavery giving to such state pecuniary aid to be used by such state in its discretion to compensate for the inconvenience, public and private produced by such a change of system The president said that the war has been an indispensable means for the preservation of the Union and declares that the present proposition is offered as something that promised 'great efficiency toward ending the struggle"

A squad of Van Allen's Union cavalry surprised and captured a Confederate picket near Bunker Hill Va

The congress of the Confederate states passed a bill making it the duty of every commanding officer in the Confederate army to destroy cotton and tobacco when there was danger of its falling into the hands of the enemy A clause providing for the compensation of the owner of the property destroyed was stricken out

Smithfield, Va. was occupied by a strong force of United States troops

Captains Bell, McKean Du Pont Goldsborough and Farragut were confirmed by the senate of the United States as flag officers in the Union navy

Citizens of Charleston, South Carolina met to organize a market for the free distribution of necessaries to the families of soldiers during the war

A squadron of the First Michigan cavalry surprised and dispersed a small company of Confederate cavalry at Berryville Va

IN MARCH

The following poem by Anna Spencer Twitchell (Mrs D S Person) of this city appears in the current number of Outdoor Life

I dreamed last night that it was spring
And that I heard a robin sing
And awoke from sleep anon to find
The teasing fingers of the wind
Have piled the white drifts to my door
And scattered some upon the floor
And all my window pane is crossed
With fairy etchings of the frost
I hear a creaking wagon go
Complaining shrilly through the snow.
I see a sky of leaden gray,
My neighbor says A bitter day
I woke—ah yes—the trees are bare,
But there is something in the air'
No rain is dripping from the eaves,
But hush! I hear the little leaves
Stir softly in their beds of bark
While in their blankets in the dark
The tiny baby seeds below,
Begin to turn and stretch and grow
Then blow O wind and winter do
Your worst—my dream is coming true'

NEARLY 8,000,000 ACRES OF COAL LAND CLASSIFIED AND VALUED

From the annual Report of Director United States Geological Survey

The area appraised as coal land by the United States geological survey during the fiscal year 1911 was 7 821 568 acres The area classified as noncoal land was 2 286 444 acres greater than that so classified in 1910 On the other hand the average price fixed per acre and the total appraised value are notably less for 1911 than for 1910 The difference is due to a concentration of work in the lignite and low grade subbituminous fields of eastern Montana and Wyoming, where the appraised values under the regulations are the minimum fixed by law.

The charge has been made that the classification policy of the geological survey has been harmful to the coal industry of the west by placing prohibitive prices on the public coal lands. The fact that the coal production of the Rocky Mountain states in 1911 showed an increase of 14 7 per cent over the production of 1910 indicates that the western coal industry has not been seriously injured It is a further significant fact that the sale of coal lands during the four fiscal years since the adoption of the survey's classification policy has been 12½ per cent greater than during the four preceding years, while the increase in receipts from the sales has been 36 per cent.

THE KNOCKER

She had a little hammer,
She used it with a will.
She knocked at everybody—
They couldn't keep her still
She knocked about her neighbors
If they were friends or foes.
She knocked about the table
And knocked about her clothes.

She knocked at hubby's smoking,
About his snoring, too.
She knocked about his whistling,
And, so perhaps, would you.
At last the Reaper claimed her.
Her course on earth was run.
Her husband then considered
Her knocking days were done

But hubby went one evening
To see a spirit show.
Where always, in the gleaming.
The spirits come and go.
He heard a spirit knocking.
"My wife," he said, "I'll bet!
Now isn't she a wonder?
Hear that! She's knocking yet!"

FIRST AID TO INJURED HEARTS

By Laura Jean Libbey

Poor but Proud

[Copyrighted, 1912, by Laura Jean Libbey]

It is generally supposed that only women take it to heart when their pride and pocketbook don't agree This is an error for there are more men who worry over this state of affairs than the world dreams of Pride spoils many a love match and wrecks many a life It has been said that love levels all ranks that Cupid puts no price tags upon hearts Many a young couple have felt a mutual attraction for each other The girl wonders why he holds aloof from her and grieves over it She gets some married woman friend of hers to put the question to him.

"She is a child of wealth, while I am poor," he responded "If I should visit her, the verdict of the whole world would certainly be that I had an eye for her money If she were only poor, like myself, you would see how earnestly I would press my suit"

That is one of the many reasons that I have taken to heart—"For I am proud, though I am poor" The fellow in the country can court his girl with a peaceful mind, even though he has not a full share of this world's goods. He can sit on the doorstep beside her, holding her hand, take long strolls through the flower-bordered country lanes, attend her to and from camp meeting, and in winter time sit with her before a log fire, take her to church and to a concert now and then at the town hall. There's no call for a great expenditure of money on his part He can save up what he makes and put it into a payment on a small farm with a little house, all his own, to bring her to,

The city man who would be a lover must needs have his pocketbook open and in his hand all the time. If he is prudent with money, he is considered in a girl's mind as stingy One girl tells a dozen that he drags her past refreshments places without inviting her in; that he never sends her a box of candy or a bouquet And he is voted by all the women as a miser—a fellow who makes a god of money. If honest affection should cause him to turn his glances toward a rich girl, they would raise the cry that he wanted her money, and make her believe it if they could. There's something she wants to see every evening in the week. The young man, who must perforce live in a cheap boarding place, in a poor but respectable locality, has lost his good sense if he thinks he can break into society and find an edger welcome awaiting him there.

Every man has his ideal of what he would like in a wife. It's an easy thing to say that he should choose in his own station in life; but if his ideal is not in that station, what then? Should he wed some girl who, like himself, is poor and proud, just for the sake of being married and bringing up a family? I say, when it is the misfortune of a poor young man to love an heiress, he should do his best to forget all the differences that lie between their stations, devote part of his salary toward finding pleasures for her, dress plain and neatly, and, above all things, save as much over one-fourth of his salary as is possible.

If the girl returns his love and has his interest at heart she will help him to do this and not work against him Golden barriers should not separate true love They should strive to conquer pride Instead of feeling discouraged over such a situation, it ought to bring forth all the grit there is in a young man an be an incentive for him to rise in the world It should be a stimulant to his ambition Without some great object to strive for, the general run of man would need a whip and gad to urge them on to making something of themselves.

Love should know no excuse no urging A man does not need to dress extravagantly to make a good appearance and to win a girl's favor The young man who dresses sensibly is sure to win respect

The girl who is interested only in seeing a man spend every cent he has earned is the last person in the world he should wish to make his wife—unless he is willing to keep his nose to the grindstone of poverty for the rest of his life Even pride wears itself out with the years It is when one is old and poor and ill that pride will not bring him a good dinner nor take the place of a loving wife to comfort him Pride and poverty are poor companions

ANSWERS

HASN'T GIVEN HER RING.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I met a young man about three years ago at a club dance He asked me if he could call on me and I told him he could call on me the following Sunday night, which he did. My parents took a liking to him and he has called on me ever since except during a brief period, the cause for his absence being a little difference of opinion on a few personal matters, but we patched up our differences and he again calls on me Some time ago he proposed to me and I accepted him, but as yet he has not given me an engagement ring, but says that he will a little later Don't you think he ought to give it to me right away? Now, in the meantime, my younger sister has been married and all my friends tell me that I will have to wait a whole year before I can wed or I will be unlucky. Would you think it advisable to wait this length of time? And if I don't get my ring soon to break up with this young man, although I love him dearly and would not like to lose him. I am troubled about this matter and would like to have an expression of opinion from you in your valuable columns.

"ANXIOUS."

No; he needn't give it to you right away. Sometimes they do, but usually a man waits a time before presenting it. No, I am sure you are too well educated and clever to believe in superstition. Ignorant people believe such things.

CHAMP CLARK HURLS LIE

Not in a "Trust" to Beat Wilson for Democratic Nomination, Says House Speaker.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Representative Burleson of Texas, chairman of the house Democratic caucus, gave out a proposed interview in which he said that Governor Harmon, Speaker Clark and Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, had formed a "presidential trust," to beat Governor Wilson, for the Democratic nomination.

Speaker Clark ignored the Burleson interview but of a public statement he requested that it be said:

"The story that I am in a combination with Governor Harmon and Mr. Underwood to defeat Governor Wilson for the presidential nomination is a malicious lie. So are the statements that New York is financing my campaign and that I am not trying to get the delegates in southern states."

LOCAL ROADS EXPLOITED IN THE MARCH MOTORIST

The March number of the Motorist, a magazine published in Omaha, Neb., and devoted to automobiling and aeronautics, contains three articles dealing with Colorado Springs, two sent out by Secretary Henderson of the Chamber of Commerce and one by Leonard E. Curtis, president of the Colorado Springs Automobile club and of the Lincoln Highway Association of Colorado.

One of the articles sent out by Secretary Henderson and that by Mr. Curtis are combined into one story under the head "Making Better the Western Highway." The article explains the status of the good roads movement in Colorado and tells of the factional fight among the different good roads organizations in the state. Mr. Curtis deals with the Lincoln highway alone showing how it shortens the distance between Colorado Springs and Omaha and that it is probably the best transcontinental road across the state. A large photograph of one of the beautiful roads in the Garden of the Gods also is used.

The other article sent out by the publicity department of the Chamber of Commerce is a short story under the head "The Pikes Peak Transcontinental Highway." It tells of the organization of the Lincoln Highway association, and explains the route the road will follow. It also points out that this route will be shorter than the other transcontinental roads and says that the autoist will travel through the most picturesque country in the west.

HUGE SUM EACH YEAR SPENT IN ADVERTISING

Americans have the advertisement reading habit, said Prof. J. V. Breitwieser in his lecture on "The Psychology of Advertising," at Perkins hall last night, and many people read the ads more than they do the news in the modern newspaper."

The lecturer discussed the field of ad writing for the young man, and gave his experience as an advertising agent. He discussed the memory of the reader of an advertisement, and showed how he follows instinct in believing what he has read. He said

"From $600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 is spent each year for advertising in the United States, and $200,000,000 of this is wasted because of the lack of knowledge of the advertiser. He does not try to fathom the psychology of advertising in selecting an advertising medium and the best use that he may make of the space that he pays for. The great development of advertising is due to the American editor or manager, who continually fosters its growth."

Professor Breitwieser pointed out the desirable positions for an advertisement, and discussed the kinds of type, color and spacing to convey a definite impression.

The lecture was attended by a large number of the business men and advertising agents of the city. The next of the series of lectures at Colorado college will be given March 12, when Prof. E. C. Hills will talk on "Some Spanish-American Poets."

RELATIVES ARE BLAMED

Relatives caused all the trouble in the Thomas E. Johnson family, 1827 Colorado avenue, according to Johnson's testimony, when he defended a disturbance suit in Justice Gowdy's court, yesterday afternoon. He was found not guilty.

Trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Johnson has been brewing for about two months. Following a quarrel, two weeks ago, she had him arrested for disturbance, and followed this with a petition for a divorce in the district court. She says that her husband spent all his money in drinking, and was abusive to her.

"I guess I was mean, to an extent," Johnson said, "but they kept hounding and nagging me until I had to do something to protect myself. But I never would touch my wife or my baby. I worked when I could and have provided a nice home. We had spats, but no more than what one would find in other homes."

Colonel Waggener's Condition Is Worse

At a late hour last night the condition of Col. T. L. Waggener, former city engineer and the man who built the Short Line railroad, was steadily growing worse and there seems to be little chance for his recovery. He is now suffering a paralysis of the lower limbs and of the left arm and hand.

NEW STYLE OF PHONES

New nickel-in-the-slot telephones are being installed in the business houses and residences in this city, where such phones are used, by the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company, taking the "nickel"—what is called "standard" instead of "nickel late."

The new telephones are equipped so they can be used either as "nickel first" or "nickel after" phones; that is, if the company so decides, it is simple to use these phones will be required to put the nickel in the slot before they can get the operator, instead of first getting the operator and putting the nickel in after the party called is on the line.

The fact that this style of telephone is being installed does not mean that the company will put this system into effect. To do this, a great change will have to be made in the main office, and that would mean the expenditure of a large sum. It is possible that the change will eventually be made, but nothing will be done at the present time.

FORMER SPRINGS COUPLE WORKING HARD IN INDIA

The Allahabad station of the American Presbyterian mission in India has just published its annual report, and in the list of 23 names appear those of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Eldredge, formerly of Colorado Springs, according to a postcard received by The Gazette yesterday from Stanley A. Hunter, who also is in Allahabad. Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge have been at work since last October in the Allahabad Christian college, which, according to the report, has 300 students, with 750 younger boys studying in the Jumna Mission High school in the same compound.

Mr. Eldredge, who is a graduate of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute of Massachusetts, is in charge of some of the physics classes in the college, and is getting ready to develop this branch of the institution into an engineering department. Mrs. Eldredge, who before her marriage was Miss Helen Woodsmall of 717 North Tejon street, is teaching a history class. Both are rapidly learning the language of the natives.

The report marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Allahabad station by American Presbyterian missionaries, and in the explanatory word by Stanley A. Hunter, formerly of Denver, and professor of psychology and English, the story of the founding is related as being due to the upsetting of a printing press from a Ganges river boat in 1836.

THEATER CHAIRS DELAYED

Car Carrying Seats for Burns Playhouse Snowbound. No Contract or Bookings Yet

Owing to the failure of the car containing the auditorium chairs for the Burns theater, to get through the snow in Kansas, the work of installing the seats has been hindered the last few days. One car arrived about a week ago and the most of these chairs are now in place. They are in the balcony and gallery. The delayed car is lost in Kansas and cannot be located but is thought that it will arrive at any time.

The rumors yesterday that Mr. Burns had closed, or was about to close, a contract for the management of the theater and one with a theatrical circuit, were without foundation.

"Nothing has been done in regard to the management of the house," said John T. Hawkins last night, "and nothing has been done in regard to getting on any of the circuits. There is plenty of time left for that and when the time comes we will sign up with responsible parties."

J. F. DOSTAL TO WED

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Irene Gertrude Howard of Denver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Howard, to John Frank Dostal of this city. The marriage will take place after Easter. Miss Howard is well known in Denver society. Mr. Dostal is general manager of the Colorado Springs Light, Heat and Power company, and in the few months since he assumed his duties he has taken a prominent place in business circles of Colorado Springs.

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY IN $5,000 DAMAGE SUIT

The [illegible] Williams suit against [illegible] Construction [illegible] in which she asks $5,000 for damages received in a fall [illegible] have been [illegible] given to the jury. The hearing of testimony was concluded last evening and the arguments are booked for this morning after District Judge Morrow [illegible] court.

Mrs. Williams was the last witness on the stand, being used for rebuttal. She said that before the accident she was able to work at almost any task but since she has been able to do very little. Friends of Mrs. Williams offered the same testimony in rebuttal.

Mrs. Williams also tell of how she had been approached and advised to drop the suit. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. May Williams, was one of these, she said. Another person had told her that the Central Construction company was a powerful concern and immediate steps would be taken if she lost the suit to send her to the penitentiary.

On the witness stand yesterday afternoon, the daughter-in-law appeared for the defense. She said that her mother-in-law had told her she was sick and tired of the suit and would drop it if she knew how. She also said the plaintiff told her she knew it was a "fake."

MORE PRAISE ABROAD FOR ELEANOR PAINTER

Evidences are multiplying of the really remarkable success achieved by Eleanor Painter of Colorado Springs in her recent debut in Germany, and she is receiving high praise in the columns of the musical press. The following clipped from the current issue of the Musical Courier was written by Arthur M. Abell, the distinguished musical critic and Berlin representative of that journal:

"Eleanor Painter, the American singer about whose beautiful voice and unusual histrionic ability I have formerly written, has signed a five-year contract for leading dramatic roles with the Charlottenburg opera house as the result of her recent great success as Madame Butterfly in Essen. The Charlottenburg opera is a new undertaking which is to be subsidized by the city. It is the purpose of the town to build an opera house with a large seating capacity and to give all the standard works at moderate prices. The Essen daily papers speak of Eleanor Painter's singing and acting in terms of the warmest praise. The credulity of the [illegible] was put to the test when they were informed that the American was a debutante and that she was singing 'Madame Butterfly' for the first time. For the past two years she has been a pupil of Richard Lowe of Berlin."

BAILEY AND AUSTIN IN "THE TOP O' TH' WORLD"

An extravaganza of conspicuous merit is "The Top O' Th' World." Two comedians of rare merit are Bailey and Austin. When a clever vehicle is provided for clever comedians, a meritorious company is engaged to support them, and a scenic investiture of beauty and good taste is carried. It makes a combination which spells "success." A great number of extravaganzas and musical comedies have been produced in New York during the past 10 years which have had everything in their favor. They can go out on "the road." For the first season, perhaps, the original company and production are carried. The show does a record-breaking business. Then, in a great many instances, the producing manager commences to figure how the show can be cheapened; he figures that a few inferior performers in the place of a few of the original performers will mean a great difference in the size of the salary list, and he says, "Why, the show is a success—it has demonstrated that conclusively—and it will 'get by' on its reputation." But it doesn't. Nowadays the average person is a great deal "wiser" to the world of the stage than was the average person of 10 years ago. Every representative magazine has its dramatic department, every country paper has its syndicated theatrical gossip from the big theatrical centers, and people know mighty well "who is who."

Bailey and Austin have a motto which they proved to stand all tests. It is this: "Give the people 'the goods' and they will gladly pay for good goods." For that reason "The Top O' Th' World" this season is just as complete, as heavy, as elaborate, and as expensive to operate as it was during its sensational New York (Majestic and Casino), and Chicago (Studebaker theater) runs. The result—business, since the opening day of the season, has been to the absolute capacity of every theater played.

It conclusively proves the wisdom of Bailey and Austin's motto and absolutely proves the fallacy of the manager's argument who says that "any cast will 'get by' in an established success."

"The Top O' Th' World" this season carries a company of 70 people; three special baggage cars are required for the scenery and effects, which will be seen here in detail at the Opera house Saturday next, March 9. Seats ready Thursday.

ATHMORE GREY PRESENTS SALOME AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The leading dance of Mlle. Athmore Grey's program is her own presentation of the Parisian Salome. Her gestures and poses, executed in a truly artistic spirit, show that she has made a deep study of the significance of the dances and appreciates the relations of the poetry of sound and motion. Mlle. Grey has, in the past two seasons, appeared in all the leading cities in the east. She is a favorite pupil of Senor Rossie, the famous ballet master at the Alhambra theater, London, Eng.

This will, without doubt, be the most popular amusement offered in Colorado Springs in many seasons, being the first time Mlle. Grey has appeared at low scale of prices in the west.

Three performances will be given daily—matinee, 3 p. m.; evenings, 8 and 9:15. Seats can be reserved at the box office for the first evening performance. Matinee, general admission, 25 cents; evening, 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents.

THE REASON FOR "THE PINK LADY"

Few people realize why a performance on the stage is different and yet you will always discover if you analyze a real hit that it possesses qualities that mark a change in public opinion at the moment when the taste is experiencing a craving for just this change. As an instance the phenomenal success of "The Pink Lady" is cited. This piece at first glance is just a musical comedy with a song and story and a bit of color. Kipling has bitter's outlined woman in a term as terse and yet given some subtle quality of personality that appeals to her mate each particular tag and bone and hank of hair becomes the very soul of all he craves in the beauty of mutuality.

Through the past 20 years musical comedy has been climbing up out of the field of hodge podge. In its early stages it depicted the restless spirit of the times. In fact, most of the entertainments which were ambiguously described as musical comedy, were in reality just a mixture of variety and burlesque with no regard for the unities and as little rhyme or reason as could be permitted. In its time, this was all right, but gradually the great public felt the need of something more coherent and a little more artistic. As this need developed, we found artists who knew the subtle influence of color lending their knowledge to the enlargement of these airy mixtures of foolery and frothiness. But still we were progressing in spite of ourselves and even this color harmony was not sufficient to hide the defects of construction which after all, is the thing that counts upon the stage. There were several productions which touched the fringe of this public yearning, but it remained for "The Pink Lady" to unearth it. Watch the performances of this comedy with music and you will see why it stands out so distinctively. First of all, it has a story to tell and tells it. With a little readjustment here and there, its book could be played as a straight farce and meet with hearty interest; the meanwhile, one would never miss the possible association of a melodious score. But having decided to bring this story within the confines of musical comedy, the score was necessary and therefore the purpose was to make it essential. But how get this music into the plot without arresting its developments? That was the serious task which confronted the collaborators. The impossible was bridged by making the score an integral part of the developments. The musical numbers are not interpolations but accompaniments. They relieve the action and at times accelerate it and always brighten it up. Not a song is there simply for the vocal effect or possibility. Rather they weave into the plot and hurry matters along and color the atmosphere.

How often have you seen a play starting with a story halted for some irrelevant remark such as: "Tonder moon is shining sweetly tonight."

That used to be called musical comedy license. But the public, with a keen sense of the ridiculous, wearied of such things and especially if the remark came in apropos of nothing, and you knew forthwith the tenor was going to give a very poor imitation of a nightingale singing lyric to a r... t. No solos are lugged in by the heels in this delightful performance. The story proceeds naturally and unfolds its rich and humorous possibilities and the songs accent them. By this combination of book and score, the piece becomes extraordinary and the public is quick to discover what it wants and knows it the instant it is rewarded to th... They may not know why or understand the subtle fail... which leads them to the point of a... dition, but they always do recognize something different when it is given to them, and so in coming about for the reasons of "The Pink Lady's" remarkable value just ... it ... W. J. HENDERSON'S SPECIAL EDITORIAL ON REINALD WERRENRATH

After Werrenrath's recital in Mendelssohn hall last season all of the musical critics praised him heartily, but W. J. Henderson, the most conservative of them all, wrote a special editorial in the New York Sun calling attention to the genuine art of the singer who, without ostentation, with refined musical feeling, and superb technique, gave just the kind of a recital that this critic had been asking for. Henderson was tired of the bellowers who mistook noise for dramatic climax. This was the burden of the article. It was a concert-weary critic given renewed interest by an artist who had taken the time to study every detail of his songs before he would offer them to the public.

This editorial aroused interest in the young American, whose work was such as to command it, and readers of the musical page in the Sun are looking forward to Werrenrath's recital here with much interest.

THE LYRIC SHOWS FIVE REELS FOR 5 CENTS

Patrons of the Lyric theater will be glad to learn that the new management, besides improving the film service, will show five reels for 5 cents. This is more than any other house in the city is now showing.

Mr. Crowningshield will cater to the best class of people, and nothing offensive to the most particular will be tolerated. The theater has been renovated and several improvements made, so that it is now as "classy" and clean and comfortable as any in town. A new aluminum curtain adds greatly to the clearness of the pictures.

The Lyric is very fortunate in securing a good line of films. None of them have ever been shown here before, and they are pretty nearly first-run pictures. They are the kind that please the patrons of the first houses in the larger cities, and that they will be well received here goes without saying.

The pictures to be shown tonight will interest everyone. There is enough variety to hold the attention of the entire audience. There is a goodly sprinkling of humor, and there is some pathos to give zest to the humor. With the five large reels shown, there is given the patrons of the Lyric a good two-hour show, in the most comfortable house in the city, for only 5 cents.

Storms and Cold Affected January Output of Lumber

TACOMA, Wash., March 5.—The statistical department of the National Lumbermen's association has made its report as to the cut and shipments of lumber for January, 1912. Six hundred and eighty-four mills are reported in this report, having a yearly normal production of 16,419,000,000 feet, or 37 per cent of the entire product of the country. There was shown a cut for the month of 605,000,000 feet, and shipments of 738,300,000 feet. This low cut for January, as compared with the normal production of the same mills, shows a light output. This was largely due to the season for logging and manufacturing conditions throughout a large part of the county being decidedly unfavorable. Such was the case particularly in the south, where rains and storms interfered with both logging and manufacturing, and in the north, the exceptionally cold weather in January and the railroad blockades interfered with manufacturing even more than with shipments, the latter having gone on in an approximately normal value. The result was an excess of shipments over the amount cut of nearly 22 per cent, reducing stocks materially.

The heaviest stock reductions in important lumber states are noted in California, Idaho, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia. Michigan, curiously enough, increased its stock on hand heavily, being the only important lumbering state which showed product in excess of current shipments.

"Through the country at large," the statement concludes, "a better situation is disclosed by these figures than has existed for several years, and has already had an effect on values in some important districts, and if production is not unduly stimulated by these favorable figures, the business should gradually reach a paying basis, though prices are still decidedly below the average necessary to yield a reasonable return on investment and cost of manufacture."

This declaration was telegraphed by Gen. The French government after considering the reported fears of an anti-foreign movement in that country, ordered the cruiser Des Cartes, now at Rio Janeiro, to proceed to Mexico.

THINKS JACKSON WILL SURPASS COBB'S RECORD

By T L. TERRELL

Joe Jackson has been termed the Bi areat of the Diamond, the Lightning Streak and several other things. Just contemplate for a moment what terms will be applied to that southern gentleman if he shows the same degree of improvement or for that matter an even smaller degree than the other leading stars of the American league.

It has frequently been stated at the time of his debut with the Cleveland club Joe's playing skill was in a more highly developed state than that of the other stars of the game during their first year.

The figures on the matter bear eloquent testimony to that fact. Joe flashed acro the horizon of the American league like Halley's comet was expected to flash. The same is true of his first appearance there in the fall of 1910.

For the purpose of comparison figures have been compiled showing the records of 10 of the leading lights of the American league for the year in which they first gained recognition.

Some may assert that in comparing Jackson to other players in this way his average for the part of the season in which he played with the Athletics should be used. To offset arguments along that line the figures have been arranged showing the work of players during the first year in which they were labeled regulars by American League managers.

Joe Jackson opened his session with the Cleveland club in the fall of 1910 and closed with a batting average of .387 for 20 games. Though labeled as a "bloomer" by some of his rivals Joe cleated out enough safeties last year to pile up an average of .408. In addition Joe slipped out of the reach of rival fielders enough to pilfer 41 sacks.

King Larry made his introduction to major league baseball with the Phillies in 1.46. Larry played in only a few games that season. In 1907 he won a regular berth and secured a batting average of .163, besides stealing 22 bases.

Cobb is the party to whom Jackson is most often compared. Recalling the wonderful feats of the Georgian in recent years, his work during the season of 1906 when he joined the Tigers and 1906 when he won a regular job is often forgotten. Ty played in only a few games in 1905. In 1906 he butted in in earnest. Ty was not the demon slugger then that he is now. His batting average for 1906 in 97 games was .320. He stole 23 bases. Just note that Joe's average for last year was somewhat superior.

Stuffy McInnis hailed as one of the greatest stars to break into baseball in recent years performed with the champions two years before he was considered ready for regular work in 1911. Last year Stuffy gathered a batting average of .321 and stole 20 bases.

Tris Speaker, at that time one of the talked of men of the day and famed since his entrance into the big ring, hit for an average of .309 during his opening year in the big ring. Tris stole ... bases.

Other noted athletes of the present who did not measure up to Jackson's standard during their freshman year in the American league are Frank Baker, Clyde Milan, Hal Chase, Jimmy ... Birdie Cree and Harry Lord.

Every single man in that crowd has improved. Cobb's advance for ... has been tremendous. It's only natural that a player will improve with experience. It's only natural that Joe Jackson will acquire the knack of using his physical prowess to greater advantage as he advances in the knowledge of the ways and means of getting the most with the least effort.

RYAN-DU CRAY SIGN ARTICLES FOR BOUT

Frank Du Cray and Tommy Ryan signed articles yesterday calling for another wrestling match in this city, Wednesday night March 1?. The bout will probably be held at Ryan's studio. The two men are already at work preparing for the go.

It may be as Ryan says, the Grand Junction grappler commented last evening, referring to Ryan's statement that he was sure he could duplicate his performance of a few nights ago when, after a hard struggle, he pinned Du Cray's shoulders to the mat. "But I have my doubts about it. I am willing to stake a little on the side that he doesn't."

And there is such a thing as Du Cray being right in his claim that Ryan has accomplished something that he cannot do again. Not only is the Grand Junction man an old head at the game but he is a wise one. He figures that he on to Ryan's different paces, and he is going to devote his training time in preparing to meet them.

That doesn't worry me a bit, Ryan said last night. "I'm not new to the game and I think that I still have some tricks up my sleeve that I did not disclose at our first meeting."

The same rules that governed the first bout will prevail at the second meeting. The two men have laid aside $50 each to be forfeited in case of a postponement. A referee will probably be named today.

Apropos to the coming mat bout a fan makes the following contribution to the sporting editor of The Gazette:

"I read with some pleasure the announcement made in The Gazette, that Du Cray and Ryan were about to sign for another bout. The recent match between these two seasoned wrestlers was one of the best I have ever seen in this city, and is still the talk among those that took in the affair. There has been so much stalling and framing in the wrestling game in recent years that it is refreshing to see a first-class 'nip-and-tuck' battle between two aggressive experienced wrestlers like Ryan and Du Cray. While Ryan is a new man with the sport lovers of this region he has shown the right spirit in everything he has touched and it is up to the ones who care to see a good straight match to get behind him and support him."

PACKEY M'FARLAND WINS FROM HOGAN

NEW YORK, March 5.—Packey McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, won all the way in a 10-round bout with "One Round" Hogan of California at the Fairmount Athletic club here tonight.

McFarland led so easily all the way that many thought he could have scored a knockout, but he appeared to hold back to allow Hogan to stay 10 rounds. The Chicago man landed enough blows to knock out six men if he had used more steam, but he seemed to delight in tantalizing Hogan without allowing him more than two or three clean blows.

Hogan weighed in at the ringside at 137 pounds, a pound heavier than McFarland. The bout began with McFarland leading with two lefts to the face. An attempted right swing missed and sent McFarland to the floor by the force of his own blow, but he was up in a second and began fighting his man all over the ring and into his corner with lefts to the face and right uppercuts. He used this combination repeatedly throughout the bout and seemed to have Hogan puzzled. The Californian hit only at short range and did not land a single straight blow in the second.

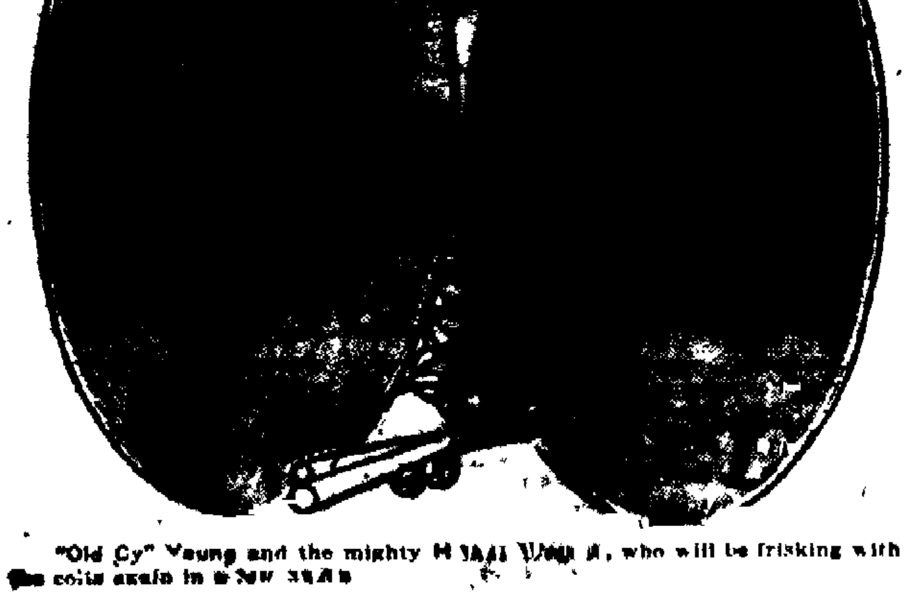

McFarland landed with rights to the body and swings to the head in the third and Hogan returned weakly. In the fourth, Hogan started for the first time to mix up, but McFarland was quick and clever with lefts to the face and right uppercuts. He used these blows effectively throughout the fifth, sixth and seventh as well. In the latter round he started Hogan's nose bleeding.

In the eighth Hogan made his showing, landing a right swing which started McFarland's nose bleeding. Packey promptly was all over his man again, and through the ninth and tenth ... held his ... by using his left to the face and right uppercuts. Hogan tried to slug back, but was plainly ... k.

COMMITTEES NAMED TO SECURE GROUNDS

The baseball fans of Colorado Springs are going after that Rocky Mountain club that Ira Bidwell has to offer like a hound after athletes only in a more graceful manner. And the harder they dig the more they like it.

They got busy yesterday on the plan adopted at Monday night's meeting of inclosing the ground on South Nevada avenue leased by Bidwell and building a grandstand and now the committees are working out the details.

G. H. Logan, B. G. Robbins and P. M. Warnick are the members of the committee named to get prices on the cost of putting the ground in condition, including the fencing of the block and the building of the grandstand. Mr. Logan, as chairman, will call a meeting within a few days.

The committee on financing is headed by W. S. Dunning, manager of the Antlers hotel. He is aided by Tod Powell, George Geiger, Clarence Underhill, John Garrett, R. E. L. Giles and Walter Udick.

Chairman Dunning has called a meeting of the finance committee for Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the sun parlor of the Antlers hotel. They will take up the suggestions that have already been made for furnishing the money for the park. Other suggestions will be accepted.

DENVER SCHOOLS WILL NOT ATTEND STATE MEET

BOULDER, Colo., March 5.—The action taken by the Denver schools to not send athletic teams to Boulder this spring to take part in the annual interscholastic track meet ... a surprise but with the increasing number of schools entered ... not thought that any lack ... will be shown. There is every reason to believe with the competition of the Denver schools withdrawn the smaller schools will send more representatives.

The Denver schools have contemplated holding out for the past few years but have never taken official action until this season. In the past these teams representing East, West, South, North and Manual have formed the largest portion of the delegates but with the entrance of more teams each season their loss will not be so keenly felt. The alumni of the schools now in the university regret that such a move has been taken and hope that next year will see the five teams again on Gamble field.

Those in charge of the high school meet have received notice from most of the schools in the state asking for quarters and information concerning the number of men and the list of events. From the present number that have reported to Dr. L. ... Lester the meet this season will be larger than ever before.

Nashville of the Southern league and Minneapolis of the American association will play exhibition games this spring and the baseball public may be able to judge if that extra A means anything in the way of class.

JEFFRIES INDUCED TO SIGN TELEGRAM

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Oh, for a Sherlock Holmes to unravel the mystery connected with the now celebrated Jeffries telegram case!

Jim Jeffries still insists that Abe Attell put one over on him.

First Jeffries issued a statement to the effect that he had not sent a telegram in weeks and charged that Attell had signed or caused his name to be signed to the wire sent Promoter Jim Coffroth reading that Attell was entitled to a draw with Kilbane, and that Abe should still be recognized as the featherweight champion.

Next came a statement by Attell in San Francisco in which the little boxer claimed that Jay Davidson, a local sporting writer had written the trouble making telegram, but that Jeffries had signed it.

Davidson a trifle peeved at having been hauled into the controversy, says that it was Attell who wrote the message and induced Jeffries to sign it when Jim was feeling pretty good. The telegraph company's records show a telegram written in a hand that differs from the signature.

Davidson, writing for an evening paper, printed the following signed statement:

"The night after the fight Attell visited Jeffries at the latter's place of business and talked over the decision with the big fellow. Jeffries told Abe very plainly that he could find no fault with the decision and that had he been refereeing the bout he would have been forced to do as Eyton had done. Jeffries added by way of sympathy for Attell, that he was disappointed at Abe's showing and felt confident that in a return match, if Abe would train properly, he would be able to regain his lost laurels. Jeffries even went so far as to authorize me to say for him that he would bet $10,000 that Abe would win in a return match under such conditions.

Later in the night Attell seemed to fear that Coffroth might call off the Attell-Murphy fight in San Francisco, and he expressed those fears to Jeffries. He finally went back into Jeffries' private office and wrote out a telegram to Coffroth, which he asked Jeffries to sign. The big fellow, desiring to do a favor for Attell consented to sign the telegram after asking Abe what it was about and being told by Attell that it was a wire to Coffroth, urging the Frisco promoter not to call off the fight with Murphy. Jeffries did not read the telegram but signed it. I was present and heard all the conversation and saw Jeffries sign the telegram."

Confronted with all this information Jeffries made the following statement:

"Attell says that I signed the message. Davidson says that I signed it, but I'll swear that I have not the slightest recollection of doing so. Abe is a smart chap and he put this over on me."

CURLEY SAYS FLYNN IS IMPROVING EVERY DAY

If as a great many ... followers believe Jim Flynn ... fireman has ... battle with ... heavyweight champion of the world who did ... Jack ... make ... While I was in ... of Johnson and ... the way he was ... Jack ... and every time I ... if some scrappy ... show up he could take ... from him. As ... I thought I knew ... America who could ... condition I noticed ... times.

Mind you this was long before I had any idea of hooking up in any way with Jim Flynn. When I returned to this country I saw Carl Morris and gave him a good ... chance of being the lucky man against the big black. They told me that Flynn had given Al Kaufman an unmerciful beating in Kansas City, such a beating that poor Al was laid up for ?2 hours and Flynn was under police surveillance. Kaufman ruled a 1 to 3 first choice but it was Flynn's fight over every inch of the way.

"Before that contest there had been much talk of matching Kaufman against Johnson, he being considered the ideal white hope. Indeed as I remember it Jack was roasted severely for seeming to dodge Al when the late Billy Delaney and ... offered to find a fat purse for the scrap.

"Now if Kaufman was so well entitled to a match with Johnson why is not the man who so thoroughly whipped Kaufman? This query goes directly and pertinently to Brady, Masterson, Corbett and the other wise fellows who conceded Kaufman such a grand chance with Johnson.

"Then too please ... that Johnson never would give Sam Langford a chance, sidestepping him persistently and religiously. Did not Flynn once beat Langford in Los Angeles in 10 rounds getting every newspaper decision there ... contest?"

"And did not Flynn hand out an unmerciful beating to Carl Morris, such a beating in fact that the referee Charley White nearly lost his license for not stopping it, and the club was severely censured. Had Morris as much as shaded Flynn the country would have acclaimed him the real goods and would have demanded that Johnson fight the Oklahoma man. As a matter of fact the match would have been made the following day.

Now then, here's the point. If Kaufman, Langford and Morris were fit opponents for Johnson, why not the man who beat them all?

"Five years ago Johnson beat Flynn who weighed 155 pounds and was really an inexperienced beginner. Today Flynn weighs 195, knows how to plow in and at the same time protect himself.

"Surely no one will say that Johnson is any better today than he was then. And besides this five years ago Johnson did not stop Flynn. He pecked away at him until he gave him a bad eye and had him bleeding so that Mrs. Flynn jumped into the ring in the eleventh round and stopped the battle, the referee refusing to permit the game and still willing Flynn to continue. Coast critics have told me all this.

OUTLAW LEAGUES DO NOT WORRY JOHNSON

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—Ban Johnson, king of baseball who ... and ... the major leagues and the national commission, is a life term ... president of the American league ... the biggest man the game has ever had, is not worried ... about the Columbian and United States outlaw leagues. We ... all them leagues because they are outlawed, but the ... all they ... at present. Ban was here yesterday for a few hours.

"What ... you think the outlaw leagues Powers and Ward ... telling about will amount to?" was asked.

"What ... say they ... doing about them?" ... asked with a broad smile.

"Talking," was the answer.

"You're right. ... right," said the genial Mr. Johnson. "I do not like to talk about them, so the least I say the better. But we are not at all worried. You know we have well organized baseball leagues and are going right ahead with the same fine brand of baseball we have handed out for many years. We may have competition some day, but we will talk about that and handle our end if it when the time comes."

From his general manner it was plain to see that the outlaw leagues or proposed outlaws are about as big jokes to the king of baseball as to anyone else. He is not worried at all.

In order to run a league in opposition to the majors or big minors today you must have talent. Anyone can build a ball park if he has enough money, but furnishing the talent which will draw crowds is another question. Anyone can draw the people if he can furnish the proper attraction. But it is a tough job furnishing the proper attraction.

Mr. Johnson did not care to discuss the affairs of the major leagues with reference to the changes suggested at the last meetings of the leagues and as people in this circuit do not care much about it we did not press the thing.

BAILEY AND AUSTIN IN "THE TOP O' TH' WORLD"

An extravaganza of conspicuous merit is "The Top O' Th' World." Two comedians of rare merit are Bailey and Austin. When a clever vehicle is provided for clever comedians, a meritorious company is engaged to support them, and a scenic investiture of beauty and good taste is carried. It makes a combination which spells "success." A great number of extravaganzas and musical comedies have been produced in New York during the past 10 years which have had everything in their favor. They can go out on "the road." For the first season, perhaps, the original company and production are carried. The show does a record-breaking business. Then, in a great many instances, the producing manager commences to figure how the show can be cheapened; he figures that a few inferior performers in the place of a few of the original performers will mean a great difference in the size of the salary list, and he says, "Why, the show is a success—it has demonstrated that conclusively—and it will 'get by' on its reputation." But it doesn't. Nowadays the average person is a great deal "wiser" to the world of the stage than was the average person of 10 years ago. Every representative magazine has its dramatic department, every country paper has its syndicated theatrical gossip from the big theatrical centers, and people know mighty well "who is who."

Bailey and Austin have a motto which they proved to stand all tests. It is this: "Give the people 'the goods' and they will gladly pay for good goods." For that reason "The Top O' Th' World" this season is just as complete, as heavy, as elaborate and as expensive to operate as it was during its sensational New York (Majestic and Casino) and Chicago (Studebaker theater) runs. The result—business, since the opening day of the season has been to the absolute capacity of every theater played.

It conclusively proves the wisdom of Bailey and Austin's motto and absolutely proves the fallacy of the manager's argument who says that "any cast will 'get by' in an established success."

"The Top O' Th' World" this season carries a company of 70 people; three special baggage cars are required for the scenery and effects, which will be seen here in detail at the Opera house Saturday next, March 9. Seats ready Thursday.

ATHMORE GREY PRESENTS SALOME AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The leading dance of Mlle. Athmore Grey's program is her own presentation of the Parisian Salome. Her gestures and poses, executed in a truly artistic spirit, show that she has made a deep study of the significance of the dances and appreciates the relations of the poetry of sound and motion. Mlle. Grey has, in the past two seasons, appeared in all the leading cities in the east. She is a favorite pupil of Senor Rossie, the famous ballet master at the Alhambra theater, London, Eng.

This will, without doubt, be the most popular amusement offered in Colorado Springs in many seasons, being the first time Mlle. Grey has appeared at low scale of prices in the west.

Three performances will be given daily—matinee, 3 p. m.; evenings, 8 and 9:15. Seats can be reserved at the box office for the first evening performance. Matinee, general admission, 25 cents; evening, 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents.

THE REASON FOR "THE PINK LADY"

Few people realize why a performance on the stage is different and yet you will always discover if you analyze a real hit that it possesses qualities that mark a change in public opinion at the moment when the taste is experiencing a craving for just this change. As a instance ... "The Pink Lady" ... [illegible] ... musical comedy ... song and story ... [illegible]

Through the past [illegible] years musical comedy has been [illegible] out of the field of hodge podge. In its early stages it caught the restless spirit of the times. In fact, most of the entertainments which were ambiguously described as musical comedy, were in reality just a mixture of variety and burlesque with no regard for the unities and as little sense of reason as could be permitted. For a time, this was all right, but gradually a great public felt the need of something more coherent and a little more artistic. As this need developed, we found artists who knew the subtle flavor of the leading story and the edge to the enlargement of those dire mixtures of foolery and fun ness. But still we were progressing in spite of ourselves and even this sort of harmony was not sufficient to hide the defects of construction which, after all, is the thing that counts upon the stage. There were several productions which touched the fringe of this public yearning, but it remained for "The Pink Lady" to unearth it. Watch the performances of this comedy with music and you will see why it stands out so distinctively. First of all, it has a story to tell and tells it. With a little readjustment here and there, its book could be played as a straight farce and meet with hearty interest, the meanwhile, one would never miss the possible association of a melodious score. But having decided to bring this story within the confines of musical comedy, the score was necessary and therefore the purpose was to make it essential. But how get this music into the plot without arresting its developments? That was the serious task which confronted the collaborators. The impossible was bridged by making the score an integral part of the developments. The musical numbers are not interpolations but accompaniments. They relieve the action and at times accelerate it and always brighten it up. Not a song is there simply for the vocal effect or possibility. Rather they weave into the plot and hurry matters along and color the atmosphere.

How often have you seen a play starting with a story halted for some irrelevant remark such as: "Yonder moon is shining sweetly tonight."

That used to be called musical comedy license. But the public, with a keen sense of the ridiculous, wearied of such things and especially if the remark came in apropos of nothing, and you knew forthwith the tenor was going to give a very poor imitation of a nightingale singing lyrics to a rose. No solos are lugged in by the heels in this delightful performance. The story progresses naturally and unfolds its rich and humorous possibilities and the songs accentuate them. By this combination of book and score, the piece becomes extraordinary and the public is quick to discover what it wants and knows it the instant it is revealed to them. They may not know why or understand the subtle influence which leads them to the point of recognition, but they always do recognize something different when it is given to them, and so in casting about for the reasons of "The Pink Lady's" remarkable value just watch it closely and ...

THE LYRIC SHOWS FIVE REELS FOR 5 CENTS

Patrons of the Lyric theater will be glad to learn that the new management, besides improving the film service, will show five reels for 5 cents. This is more than any other house in the city is now showing.

Mr. Crowningshield will cater to the best class of people, and nothing offensive to the most particular will be tolerated. The theater has been renovated and several improvements made, so that it is now as "classy" and clean and comfortable as any in town. A new aluminum curtain adds greatly to the clearness of the pictures.

The Lyric is very fortunate in securing a good line of films. None of them have ever been shown here before, and they are pretty nearly first-run pictures. They are the kind that please the patrons of the first houses in the larger cities and that they will be well received here goes without saying.

The pictures to be shown tonight will interest everyone. There is enough variety to hold the attention of the entire audience. There is a goodly sprinkling of humor and there is some pathos to give zest to the humor. With the five large reels shown there is given the patrons of the Lyric a good touching show in the most comfortable house in the city for only 5 cents.

Storms and Cold Affected January Output of Lumber

TACOMA, Wash., March 5.—The statistical department of the National Lumbermen's association has made its report as to the cut and shipments of lumber for January, 1912. Six hundred and eighty-four mills are reported in this report, having a yearly normal production of 16,419,000,000 feet, or 37 per cent of the entire product of the country. There was shown a cut for the month of 605,000,000 feet, and shipments of 738,300,000 feet. This low cut for January, as compared with the normal production of the same mills, shows a light output. This was largely due to the season for logging and manufacturing conditions throughout a large part of the county being decidedly unfavorable. Such was the case particularly in the south, where rains and storms interfered with both logging and manufacturing, and in the north, the exceptionally cold weather in January and the railroad blockades interfered with manufacturing even more than with shipments, the latter having gone on in an approximately normal value. The result was an excess of shipments over the amount cut of nearly 22 per cent, reducing stocks materially.

The heaviest stock reductions in important lumber states are noted in California, Idaho, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia. Michigan, curiously enough, increased its stock on hand heavily, being the only important lumbering state which showed product in excess of current shipments.

"Through the country at large," the statement concludes, "a better situation is disclosed by these figures than has existed for several years, and has already had an effect on values in some important districts, and if production is not unduly stimulated by these favorable figures, the business should gradually reach a paying basis, though prices are still decidedly below the average necessary to yield a reasonable return on investment and cost of manufacture."

ONLY FOREIGN WAR WOULD BRING DIAZ TO MEXICO

PARIS, March 5.—"What I promised my compatriots was that I would return should war break out against a foreign enemy and not that I would return to take part in the struggle of the parties. I have no intention of intervening in the strife of the parties, especially while they have not recovered their reason."

This declaration was telegraphed by Gen. Porfirio Diaz today, to the Associated Press, in connection with a report that he had written a letter to a friend in New York saying that he was ready to return to Mexico if the country needed him. It was in response to a request as to his intentions telegraphed to General Diaz, who is staying at Cap d'Ail, on the French Riviera.

The French government after considering the reported fears of an anti-foreign movement in that country, ordered the cruiser Des Cartes, now at Rio Janeiro, to proceed to Mexico.

How Doctors Scheme To Get Your Money

We have too many doctors. Some of them have a hard time getting a living. They have to scheme to make both ends meet. Here's one scheme. The doctor says that a specialist is needed. The doctor suggests the man. Then he gets a part of the specialist's fee as a commission. This always increases the bill, and has caused needless operations. There are other schemes. All work against the patient's health or purse. They are all explained in Pearson's Magazine for March. Read the story. It begins on page 273. Read it. It may help guard your health. THINKS JACKSON WILL SURPASS COBB'S RECORD

By T. L. TERRELL

Joe Jackson has been termed the Bearcat of the Diamond, the Lightning Streak and several other things. [illegible] contemplate for a moment what terms will be applied to that southern gentleman if he shows the same degree of improvement or for that matter even smaller degree than the other leading stars of the American league.

It has frequently been stated at the time of his debut with the Cleveland club Joe's playing skill was in a more highly developed state than that of the other stars of the game during their first year.

The figures on the matter bear eloquent testimony to that fact. Joe flashed across the horizon of the American league like Halley's comet was expected to flash. The same is true of his first appearance there in the fall of 1910.

For the purpose of comparison figures have been compiled showing the records of 10 of the leading lights of the American league for the year in which they first gained recognition.

Some may assert that in comparing Jackson to other players in this way his average for the part of the season in which he played with the Athletics should be used. To offset arguments along that line the figures have been arranged showing the work of players during the first year in which they were labeled regulars by American league managers.

Joe Jackson opened his season with the Cleveland club in the fall of 1910, and closed with a batting average of .387 for 20 games. Though labeled as a "bloomer" by some of his rivals, Joe clouted out enough safeties last year to pile up an average of .408. In addition Joe slipped out of the reach of rival fielders enough to pilfer 41 sacks.

King Larry made his introduction to major league baseball with the Phillies in 1896. Larry played in only a few games that season. In 1897 he won a regular berth and secured a batting average of .363, besides stealing 22 bases.

Cobb is the party to whom Jackson is most often compared. Recalling the wonderful feats of the Georgian in recent years, his work during the season of 1905 when he joined the Tigers and 1906 when he won a regular job is often forgotten. Ty played in only a few games in 1905. In 1906 he butted in in earnest. Ty was not the demon slugger then that he is now. His batting average for 1906 in 97 games was .320. He stole 23 bases. Just note that Joe's average for last year was [illegible] superior.

RYAN-DU CRAY SIGN ARTICLES FOR BOUT

Frank Du Cray and Tommy Ryan signed articles yesterday calling for another wrestling match in this city, Wednesday night, March 13. The bout will probably be held at Ryan's studio. The two men are already at work preparing for the go.

"It may be as Ryan says," the Grand Junction grappler commented last evening, referring to Ryan's statement that he was sure he could duplicate his performance of a few nights ago, when, after a hard struggle, he pinned Du Cray's shoulders to the mat. "But I have my doubts about it. I am willing to stake a little on the side that he doesn't."

And there is such a thing as Du Cray being right in his claim that Ryan has accomplished something that he cannot do again. Not only is the Grand Junction man an old head at the game, but he is a wise one. He figures that he is on to Ryan's different paces, and he is going to devote his training time in preparing to meet them.

"That doesn't worry me a bit," Ryan said last night. "I'm not new to the game, and I think that I still have some tricks up my sleeve that I did not disclose at our first meeting."

The same rules that governed the first bout will prevail at the second meeting. The two men have laid aside $50 each to be forfeited in case of a postponement. A referee will probably be named today.

Apropos to the coming mat bout, a fan makes the following contribution to the sporting editor of The Gazette:

"I read with some pleasure the announcement made in The Gazette, that Du Cray and Ryan were about to sign for another bout. The recent match between these two seasoned wrestlers was one of the best I have ever seen in this city, and is still the talk among those that took in the affair. There has been so much stalling and framing in the wrestling game in recent years that it is refreshing to see a first-class 'nip-and-tuck' battle between two aggressive, experienced wrestlers like Ryan and Du Cray. While Ryan is a new man with the sport lovers of this region, he has shown the right spirit in everything he has touched, and it is up to the ones who care to see a good, straight match to get behind him and support him."

PACKEY M'FARLAND WINS FROM HOGAN

NEW YORK, March 5.—Packey McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, won all the way in a 10-round bout with "One Round" Hogan of California at the Fairmount Athletic club here tonight.

McFarland led so easily all the way that many thought he could have scored a knockout, but he appeared to hold back to allow Hogan to stay 10 rounds. The Chicago man landed enough blows to knock out six men if he had used more steam, but he seemed to delight in tantalizing Hogan without allowing him more than two or three clean blows.

Hogan weighed in at the ringside at 137 pounds, a pound heavier than McFarland. The bout began with McFarland leading with two lefts to the face. An attempted right swing missed and sent McFarland to the floor by the force of his own blow; but he was up in a second and began fighting his man all over the ring and into his corner with lefts to the face and right uppercuts. He used this combination repeatedly throughout the bout and seemed to have Hogan puzzled. The Californian hit only at short range and did not land a single straight blow in the second.

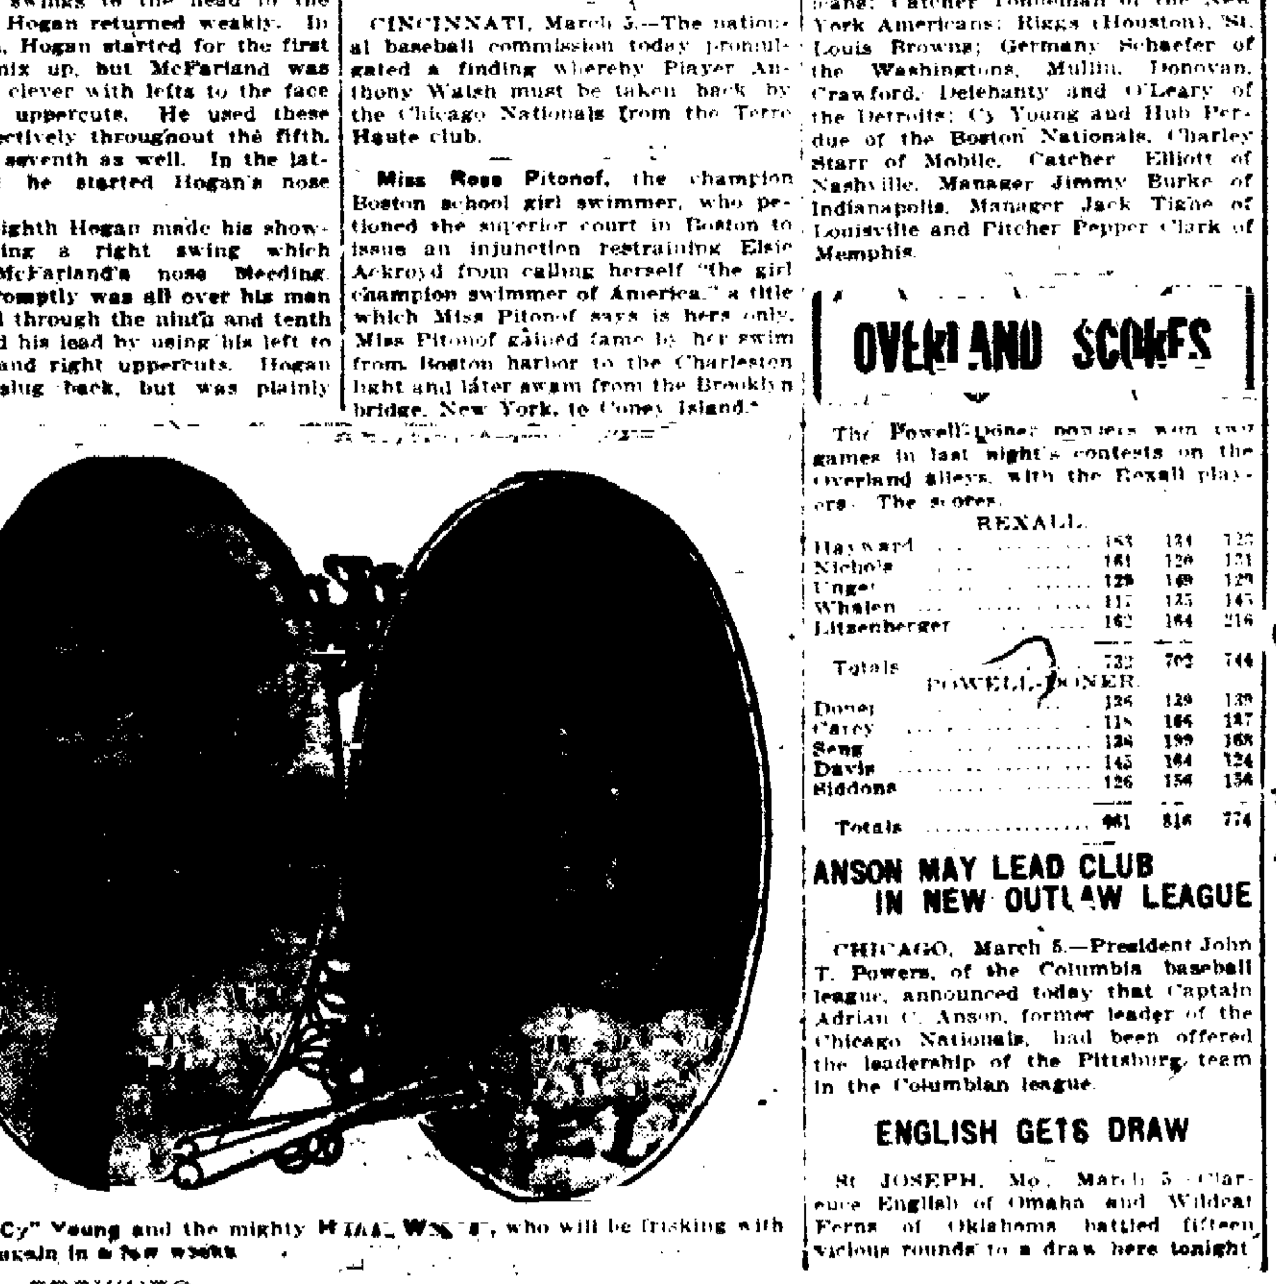

McFarland landed with rights to the body and swings to the head in the third and Hogan returned weakly. In the fourth, Hogan started for the first time to mix up, but McFarland was quick and clever with lefts to the face and right uppercuts. He used these blows effectively throughout the fifth, sixth and seventh as well. In the latter round he started Hogan's nose bleeding.

In the eighth Hogan made his showing, landing a right swing which started McFarland's nose bleeding. Packey promptly was all over his man again, and through the ninth and tenth easily held his lead by using his left to the face and right uppercuts. Hogan tried to slug back, but was plainly weak.

CUBS CAN HAVE WALSH

CINCINNATI, March 5.—The national baseball commission today promulgated a finding whereby Player Anthony Walsh must be taken back by the Chicago Nationals from the Terre Haute club.

Miss Rose Pitonof, the champion Boston school girl swimmer, who petitioned the superior court in Boston to issue an injunction restraining Elsie Ackroyd from calling herself "the girl champion swimmer of America," a title which Miss Pitonof says is hers only. Miss Pitonof gained fame by her swim from Boston harbor to the Charleston light and later swam from the Brooklyn bridge, New York, to Coney Island.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE BOXING GAME

COMMITTEES NAMED TO SECURE GROUNDS

The baseball fans of Colorado Springs are going after that Rocky Mountain club that Ira Bidwell has to offer like a hound after a flea, only in a more graceful manner. And the harder they dig, the more they like it.

They got busy yesterday on the plan adopted at Monday night's meeting of inclosing the ground on South Nevada avenue, leased by Bidwell, and building a grandstand, and now the committees are working out the details.

G. H. Logan, B. J. Robbins and P. M. Warnick are the members of the committee named to get prices on the cost of putting the ground in condition, including the fencing of the block and the building of the grandstand. Mr. Logan, as chairman, will call a meeting within a few days.

The committee on financing is headed by W. S. Dunning, manager of the Antlers hotel. He is aided by Tod Powell, George Geiger, Clarence Underhill, John Garrett, R. E. L. Giles and Walter Udick.

Chairman Dunning has called a meeting of the finance committee for Thursday evening, at 7:45 o'clock, in the sun parlor of the Antlers hotel. They will take up the suggestions that have already been made for furnishing the money for the park. Other suggestions will be accepted.

DENVER SCHOOLS WILL NOT ATTEND STATE MEET

BOULDER, Colo., March 5.—The action taken by the Denver high schools to not send athletic teams to Boulder this spring to take part in the annual interscholastic track meet comes as a surprise, but with the increasing number of schools entered, it is not thought that any lack of interest will be shown. There is every reason to believe, with the competition of the Denver schools withdrawn, the smaller schools will send more representatives. The Denver schools have contemplated holding out for the past few years but have never taken official action until this season. In the past these teams representing East, West, South, North and Manual have formed the largest portion of the delegates but with the entrance of more teams each season their loss will not be so keenly felt. The alumni of the schools now in the university regret that such a move has been taken and hope that next year will see the five teams again on Gamble field.

Those in charge of the high school meet have received notice from most of the schools in the state asking for quarters and information concerning the number of men and the list of events. From the present number that have reported to Dr. J. V. Lester the meet this season will be larger than ever before.

Nashville of the Southern league and Minneapolis of the American association will play exhibition games this spring and the baseball public may be able to judge if that extra "A" means anything in the way of class.

JEFFRIES INDUCED TO SIGN TELEGRAM

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Oh, for a Sherlock Holmes to unravel the mystery connected with the now celebrated Jeffries telegram case!

Jim Jeffries still insists that Abe Attell "put one over" on him.

First Jeffries issued a statement to the effect that he had not sent a telegram in weeks, and charged that Attell had signed, or caused his name to be signed, to the wire sent Promoter Jim Coffroth, reading that Attell was entitled to a draw with Kilbane, and that Abe should still be recognized as the featherweight champion.

Next came a statement by Attell in San Francisco, in which the little boxer claimed that Jay Davidson, a local sporting writer, had written the trouble making telegram, but that Jeffries had signed it.

Davidson, a trifle peeved at having been hauled into the controversy, says that it was Attell who wrote the message and induced Jeffries to sign it when Jim "was feeling pretty good." The telegraph company's records show a telegram written in a hand that differs from the signature.

Davidson, writing for an evening paper, printed the following signed statement:

"The night after the fight Attell visited Jeffries at the latter's place of business and talked over the decision with the big fellow. Jeffries told Abe very plainly that he could find no fault with the decision, and that had he been refereeing the bout he would have been forced to do as Eyton had done. Jeffries added, by way of sympathy for Attell, that he was disappointed at Abe's showing and felt confident that in a return match, if Abe would train properly, he would be able to regain his lost laurels. Jeffries even went so far as to authorize me to say for him that he would bet $10,000 that Abe would win in a return match under such conditions.

"Later in the night Attell seemed to fear that Coffroth might call off the Attell-Murphy fight in San Francisco, and he expressed those fears to Jeffries. He finally went back into Jeffries' private office and wrote out a telegram to Coffroth, which he asked Jeffries to sign. The big fellow, desiring to do a favor for Attell, consented to sign the telegram after asking Abe what it was about and being told by Attell that it was a wire to Coffroth, urging the Frisco promoter not to call off the fight with Murphy. Jeffries did not read the telegram but signed it. I was present and heard all the conversation and saw Jeffries sign the telegram."

Confronted with all this information Jeffries made the following statement:

Attell says that I signed the message. Davidson says that I signed it, but I'll swear that I have not the slightest recollection of doing so. Abe is a smart chap and he put this over on me.

CURLEY SAYS FLYNN IS IMPROVING EVERY DAY

If, as a great [illegible] followers [illegible] Brennan [illegible] battle [illegible] heavyweight [illegible]

While I was in [illegible] of Johnson and [illegible] Jack [illegible] and every time I see [illegible] if some scrappy [illegible] show up [illegible] from him. As [illegible] thought I knew [illegible] America who [illegible] condition [illegible] times.

Mind [illegible] had any idea of [illegible] any way with Jim Flynn. When I returned to this country [illegible] Morris and give [illegible] chance of being the [illegible] against the big black [illegible] Flynn had given Al Kaufman an unmerciful beating in Kansas City, such a beating that [illegible] Al was laid up for [illegible] hours and Flynn was under police surveillance. Kaufman ruled a 1 to 3 first choice, but it was Flynn's fight over every inch of the way.

"Before that contest there had been much talk of matching Kaufman against Johnson [illegible] considered the ideal white hope. Indeed as I remember it, Jack was roasted severely for seeming to dodge Al when the late Billy Delaney and [illegible] offered to find a fat purse for the scrap.

"Now, if Kaufman was so well entitled to a match with Johnson, why is not the man who so thoroughly whipped Kaufman? This same goes directly and pertinently to Brady, Masterson, Corbett and the other wise fellows who conceded Kaufman such a grand chance with Johnson.

"Then, too, please [illegible] Johnson never would give Sam Langford a chance, sidestepping so persistently and religiously [illegible] Flynn once beat Langford in Los Angeles in 10 rounds, getting every newspaper decision there [illegible] the contest?

"And did not Flynn hand out an unmerciful beating to Carl Morris, such a beating, in fact, that the referee, Charley White, nearly lost his license for not stopping it, and the club was severely censured? Had Morris as much as shaded Flynn the country would have acclaimed him the real goods and would have demanded that Johnson fight the Oklahoma man. As a matter of fact, the match would have been made the following day.

"Now then, here's the point: If Kaufman, Langford and Morris were fit opponents for Johnson, why not the man who beat them all?

"Five years ago Johnson beat Flynn who weighed 155 pounds and was really an inexperienced beginner. Today Flynn weighs 195, knows how to plow in and at the same time protect himself.

"Surely no one will say that Johnson is any better today than he was then. And besides this, five years ago Johnson did not stop Flynn. He pecked away at him until he gave him a bad eye and had him bleeding so that Mrs. Flynn jumped into the ring in the eleventh round and stopped the battle, the referee refusing to permit the game and still willing Flynn to continue. Coast critics have told me all this.

"Before Johnson beat Jeffries did the people think he was as much? [illegible]

OUTLAW LEAGUES DO NOT WORRY JOHNSON

KANSAS CITY, March [illegible] [illegible]

"What [illegible] leagues, Powers and Ward [illegible]?"

"What [illegible] about these [illegible] smile.

"[illegible] is the answer.

"You're [illegible]," said the [illegible] Mr. Johnson. "I do not like to talk about them. So the least I say the better. But we are not at all worried. You know we have well organized baseball leagues and are going right ahead with the same fine brand of baseball we have handed out for many years. We may have competition some day, but we will talk about that and handle our end of it when the time comes."

From his general manner it was plain to see that the outlaw leagues or proposed outlaws are about as big jokes to the king of baseball as to any one else. He is not worried at all.

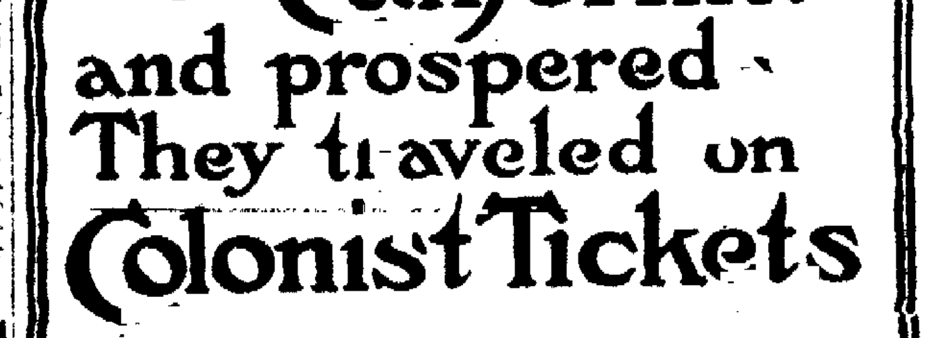

In order to run a league in opposition to the majors or big minors today you must have talent. Anyone can build a ball park if he has enough money, but furnishing the talent which will draw crowds is another question. Anyone can draw the people if he can furnish the proper attraction. But it is a tough job furnishing the proper attraction.

Mr. Johnson did not care to discuss the affairs of the major leagues with reference to the changes suggested at the last meetings of the leagues and as people in this circuit do not care much about it we did not press the thing.

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 5.—Daily shipments are [illegible] two shafts on [illegible] Dollar Consolidated Mining company's Beacon hill estate and lessees in the Gold Dollar tunnel are shipping about two cars a week. The March output, it is expected, will establish a tonnage record for the mine.

The company operating in the Mable M. shaft has opened up most promising [illegible] tenth level, and [illegible] from the [illegible] ... same shoots at the [illegible]. A [illegible] is being [illegible] approximately 900 feet [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] the known [illegible]. The Husted shaft on the north end of the property [illegible] Leasing [illegible] every day and [illegible] operating [illegible] are mining a [illegible] of milling ore while developing this section south of the Mable M. and Gold Dollar shafts by laterals carried out from the winze below the tunnel level.

Star of Bethlehem.

[illegible] and associates leasing on the Star of Bethlehem, a Stratton estate property on Bull hill, loaded out a [illegible] shipment by team this morning. A [illegible] shoot was recently encountered and the vein carries a mud seam literally yellow with gold of [illegible] character. The streak, however, can not be saved except with the [illegible] milling matter, and the values will be decreased thereby. The quartz broken is of low grade, but with the talc seam mixed the ore may ship at about $30 to the ton, and may bring $40.

Ramona.

Henby and Anderson, leasing on the Ramona on Bull hill, have installed an electric hoist underground to hoist the ore broken not only in the Ramona workings but in the Silver Tip adjoining, on which property they also hold a lease from the United Gold Mines company. The lessees were shipping from the mine today.

Ajax Mining Co.

The suit of Miller and Morgan, the ejected lessees who were operating a block of the Ajax mine on Battle mountain, against the Ajax Gold Mining company, was called in the district court this morning and then continued until next Tuesday. The ejected lessees are seeking a restoration of their lease and damages for the ejectment. The company is expected to try to prove that the working contract was canceled for alleged "highgrading."

Blue Flag Mill Resumes.

The mill of the Blue Flag Gold Mining and Milling company, west of the Blue Bird mine shaft on Raven hill, has resumed the treatment of ore. One shift will be operated at the start, and about 40 tons of low grade mine ore will be put through the crushers and into the solution tanks. The Blue Bird company has been developing the ore bodies at depth, while the mill was closed down, and is reported to have large ore reserves blocked out.

Intoxicating liquors have been made from the sap of the birch, the willow, the poplar and the sycamore.

WHY PARLIAMENT BEGINS TUESDAY

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Parliament's custom of assembling for a new session on Tuesday instead of on the first working day of the week originated in the religious scruples of legislators of a century ago. In 1809, it was proposed that Monday should be made the day of meeting, but William Wilberforce, M. P. for the County of York, pointed out that for himself and many other members this would involve Sunday traveling, a thing he abhorred. So the day was changed to Tuesday, and a Sabbatarian scruple has ruled the action of parliament to an era which sees more motor cars on Sunday than on any day of the week.

Magazine Notes

The March American Magazine contains the first authentic report published in this country of certain highly important discoveries in a London laboratory as to the relative strength both mental and physical of the younger children of a family as compared with the older children. After examining thousands of cases the evidence seems to be that the first two children in a family are not in the majority of cases as strong mentally and physically as those that come later. The point for American readers of course is that economic pressure, which increases the cost of living, reduces the size of families and weakens the mental and physical strength of a nation.

There are many other important articles in the March American. For example, Stewart Edward White's story of a [illegible]; Julian Leavitt's investigation of American prisons in which he reveals the practice of unheard-of brutalities; Ida M. Tarbell's paper on "The Business of Being a Woman," La Follette's autobiography, and Hugh S. Fullerton's amusing and yet informing article on Eating.

Splendid fiction is furnished by Edna Ferber, James Oppenheim, C. S. Raymond, Edith Ronald Mirrielees and H. G. Wells.

The first week of the month usually ushers in a large double number of Life. This week we have the fashion number, which, as we are informed, contains no information at all about fashions. Underneath this subtle disclaimer, however, we detect many touches of satire upon our prevailing modes, and some of the extremists in style will not be highly edified by seeing themselves thus mirrored.

The cover, by Henry Hutt, is in itself a masterpiece of satire; it portrays a woman looking out into the world with a gaze which is a mixture of cynicism, indifference and suggestion of feminine power. It is one of the most effective covers that Life has ever had.

The number opens with a picture by Bayard Jones, entitled "His Dance," in which a humorous situation is very well hit off.

Quite a remarkable title picture is one in which certain animals are made to represent the letters of Life.

The progressives of both parties have many unquestioned virtues, but hitherto the saving grace of humor has been rigorously denied them. They may well, however, welcome to their ranks Dr. S. M. Crothers, who in the March number of the Atlantic writes a letter to a citizen of the old school in which sanity, humor and sound reasoning are judiciously compounded. With a large public such methods will make more converts than the oppressively familiar trumpet call of the orator.

This March issue is signalized by the first chapters of "The Sunset of the Confederacy," a detailed personal history of the week of Appomattox by General Morris Schaff, himself an actor in that great drama, and author of "The Spirit of Old West Point," "The Battle of the Wilderness," and other books peculiarly familiar to old soldiers. "The Significance of the Persian Question" is a timely and suggestive article by Roland G. Usher. In "The Prospects of Anglo-Saxon Democracy" Professor L. T. Hobhouse, of London university, interprets the social currents of the time. W. D. Parkinson discusses some very curious and interesting phases of the debatable rights of real estate. Among other papers are two in the distinctive vein of humor and fancy appropriated by the Atlantic, "The Wildcat Trail" and "The Fairy Touch." "A Boys' School in Utopia," and Dean Hodges' "The Persistence of Religion" are two other readable papers in the issue.

DOLLY DIMPLE, $25,000 COW AND HER VALET.

With a college student, Alonzo Hathaway of the Ames Agricultural college of Iowa for her valet, with her daily baths of lukewarm water, with her hoofs and horns "manicured" to a nicety, and with every inch of her glossy hide polished to a shining finish, Dolly Dimple, a $25,000 cow, is the last word in bovine aristocracy. Dolly Dimple is the pride of Langwater farms, owned by F. Lothrop Ames, the millionaire of Boston, Newport and North Easton, Mass. Mr. Ames secured Hathaway from the Agricultural college situated at Webster City, Ia., after the latter had secured a leave of absence to act as "valet" to the prize cow.

Curt Bernard of Auburn, Me., an outfielder, has accepted terms offered by Manager Joe McGinnity to play with the Newarks this season. Bernard played with the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast league last season.

HIS NAME WAS "BILLYUS"

"I want you to see this family," explained Peggy to her father. "Come here, boys, and see Master Captain," called Peggy to the three pickaninnies who were peeping around the corner of the cottage.

"Hello, boys. Whose sons are you? Miss Peggy tells me you are brothers."

"Yas, sir, we is. We's Joshua Jozadak Jubal Jones's boys. I'se Gus, de ol'es."

"And how old are you?"

"I'se 9, I reckons."

"And what is your name?"

"My name? Gus, sah."

"That's only half a name. Your whole name is really Augustus, remember." The "Massa Captain's" voice boomed with the sound of the sea.

"And your name?" continued the questioner, pointing at number two.

"I'se jist Jule, sah," was the shy reply.

"That's a nickname, too. I can't have such slipshod, no account names for my hands' children. It isn't dignified. It isn't respectful. It's a disgrace to Miss Peggy. Do you hear?"

"Yas, yas, sir; we we hears," answered the little negroes in chorus.

"Please, sah, what's his name ef 'tain't Jule?" Augustus plucked up heart of grace to ask.

"He is Julius, Jul-i-u-s, do you understand?"

"Yes, sir, yes sir."

"And your name?" asked the Massa Captain of the quaking number three. There was a long, significant pause, then contortions. At length after two or three futile attempts, he blurted out:

I'se—I'se Billyus, sah!"

There was an explosion of laughter. Then Neil Stewart tossed the redoubtable Billyus a quarter, crying "You win!" and walked away with Peggy, his laughter now and again borne back to his beneficiaries.

BUTTE, Mont., March 5.—William J. Bryan, who arrived here this afternoon from Spokane, declared he never has found Democrats so active or hopeful as on his present trip.

"The sentiment among Democrats is progressive, but they are not united on any candidate," said Mr. Bryan. "The contest for the nomination, however, is very friendly, and no matter who is chosen to lead the party, Democrats are sure of a progressive candidate and a progressive platform."

Mr. Bryan was the guest of Governor E. L. Norris at luncheon, at which many Democratic leaders were present, and later he addressed a meeting at the Auditorium. He left for Helena this afternoon.

[illegible] of the Blue Flag Gold Mining and Milling company, east of the Blue Bird mine, [illegible] on Raven hill, has resumed the treatment of ore. One shift will be operated at the start and about 40 tons of low grade mine ore will be put through the crushers and into the solution tanks. The Blue Bird company has been developing the ore bodies at depth, while the mill was closed down, and is reported to have large ore reserves blocked out.

Intoxicating liquors have been made from the sap of the birch, the willow, the poplar and the sycamore.

WHY PARLIAMENT BEGINS TUESDAY

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Parliament's [illegible] of assembling for a new session on Tuesday instead of on the first working day of the week originated in the religious scruples of legislators of a century ago. In 1800 it was proposed that Monday should be made the day of meeting, but William Wilberforce, M. P. for the County of York, pointed out that for himself and many other members this would involve Sunday traveling, a thing to be abhorred. So the day was changed to Tuesday, and a Sabbatarian scruple has ruled the action of parliament to an era which sees more motor cars on Sunday than on any day of the week.

Magazine Notes

The March American Magazine contains the first authentic report published in this country of certain highly [illegible] a London [illegible] relative strength [illegible] of the [illegible] children of a family [illegible] older children. After [illegible] that the first two children of a family are not, in the majority of cases, as strong mentally and physically as those that come [illegible] American readers [illegible] that economic pressure [illegible] decreases the size of families and weakens the mental and physical strength of the nation.

There are many other important articles in the March American. For example, Stewart Edward White's story [illegible] investigation of American prisons, in which [illegible] M. Tarbell's paper on "The Business of Being a Woman." [illegible] and Hugo [illegible] [illegible] eating.

Special [illegible] furnished by Ellis Parker Butler, [illegible] and H. G. Wells.

[illegible] week of the month [illegible] double number of [illegible] we are informed [illegible] of all about [illegible]. Underneath this [illegible] however, the [illegible] of satire upon our prevailing [illegible] and some of the extremists [illegible] be [illegible] edified by seeing themselves thus mirrored.

The cover by Henry Hutt is an [illegible] masterpiece of satire. It portrays [illegible] looking out into the world [illegible] gaze which is a mixture of [illegible] indifference and suggestion [illegible] power. It is one of the most effective covers that Life has [illegible].

The number opens with a picture by [illegible] Jones, entitled "His Dance," in which a humorous situation is very [illegible] off.

Quite a remarkable title picture is one in which certain animals are made to represent the letters of Life.

The progressives of both parties have [illegible] unquestioned virtues, but hitherto the saving grace of humor has been rigorously denied them. They may well, however, welcome to their ranks Dr. S. M. Crothers, who in the March number of the Atlantic writes a letter to a citizen of the old school in which sanity, humor and sound reasoning are [illegible] compounded. With a large public such methods will make more converts than the oppressively familiar trumpet call of the orator.

This March issue is signalized by the first chapters of "The Sunset of the Confederacy," a detailed personal history of the week of Appomattox by General Morris Schaff, himself an actor in that great drama, and author of "The Spirit of Old West Point," "The Battle of the Wilderness," and other books peculiarly familiar to old soldiers. "The Significance of the Persian Question" is a timely and suggestive article by Roland G. Usher. In "The Prospects of Anglo-Saxon Democracy" Professor L. T. Hobhouse, of London university, interprets the social currents of the time. W. D. Parkinson discusses some very curious and interesting phases of the debatable rights of real estate. Among other papers are two in the distinctive vein of humor and fancy appropriated by the Atlantic, "The Wildcat Trail" and "The Fairy Touch." "A Boys' School in Utopia," and Dean Hodges' "The Possessions of Religion," are two other [illegible] papers in the issue.

DOLLY DIMPLE, $25,000 COW AND HER VALET.

With a college student, Alonze Hathaway, of the Ames Agricultural college of Iowa for her valet, with [illegible] [illegible] her boots and hoofs manicured [illegible] with every inch of her glossy hide polished to a shining finish, Dolly Dimple, a $25,000 cow, is the last word in bovine aristocracy. Dolly Dimple is the pride of Lanewater farms, owned by F. Lothrop Ames, the millionaire of Boston, Newport and North Easton, Mass. Mr. Ames secured Hathaway from the Agricultural college situated at Webster City, Ia., after the latter had [illegible] offered as the prize.

[illegible] Bernard of Auburn, Me., an outfielder, has accepted terms offered by Manager Joe McGinnity to play with the Newarks this season. Bernard played with the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast league last season.

HIS NAME WAS "BILLYUS"

[illegible] to see this family," explained Peggy to her father. "Come here, boys, and see Master Captain," called Peggy to the three pickaninnies who were peeping around the corner of the cottage.

"Hello, boys. Whose sons are you?" Miss Peggy tells [illegible] are brothers."

"Yas, sir, we is. We's Joshua Jozedak Jubal Jones's b[illegible]

"And how old are you?"

"I's 9, I reckons."

"And what is your name?"

"M[illegible] name? Gus, sah."

"That's only half a name. Your whole name is really Augustus, remember." The "Massa Captain's" voice boomed with the sound of the sea.

"And your name?" continued the questioner, pointing at number two.

"I's jist Jule, sah," was the shy reply.

"That's a nickname, too. I can't have such slipshod [illegible] names for my hands' [illegible]. It isn't dignified. It isn't respectful. It's a disgrace to Miss Peggy."

"Yas, yas, sir," the two boys answered the little negress [illegible]

"Please, sah, what's the name of 'taint Jule?" Augustus plucked up heart of grace to ask.

"He is Julius, Julius, you understand?"

"Yes, sir, yes, sir."

"And your name," asked the "Massa Captain" of the smallest number three. There was a long, significant pause, then contortions. At length, after two or three futile attempts, he blurted out:

[illegible]

There was an explosion of laughter. Then Neil Stewart tossed the redoubtable Billyus a quarter, saying, "You win!" and walked away with Peggy, his laughter now and again borne back to his beneficiaries.

[illegible] March [illegible] William J. Bryan, who arrived here this afternoon from Spokane, declared he never has found Democrats so active or forceful as on his present trip.

The sentiment among Democrats is progressive, but they are not united on any candidate," said Mr. Bryan. "The contest for the nomination, however, is very friendly, and no matter who is chosen to lead the party, Democrats are sure of a progressive candidate and a progressive platform."

Mr. Bryan was the guest of Governor E. L. Norris at luncheon, at which many Democratic leaders were present and later he addressed a meeting at the Auditorium. He left for Helena this afternoon.
